Marion Nurse To Serve Overseas

MISS JUNE SWOPE

Miss June Swope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Swope of 291 Marion avenue, who was graduated from the Miami Valley Hospital Training School for Nurses in May this year, has enlisted for overseas duty with a base hospital unit, and will leave Nov. 15 for New York for an induction training period before leaving the country. She is one of 30 nurses, who with 15 doctors make up a unit from Montgomery county.

Miss Swope's parents received word yesterday that she had passed the state board examination for registered nurses with a high average. She was graduated from Harding High school in 1938 and prior to entering nurses' training attended Toledo university at Toledo. She is an obstertical nurse on the staff of the Miami Valley hospital.

Miss Swope returned to Dayton last Sunda yafter spending a week with her parents here.

$89,362 in War Chest; Seek Goal by Monday

Leaders Say $104,361 Total Now in Sight; Reports Include 478 Per Cent Return from Brass & Bronze Co. and Pledges Boosting Shovel Co. Total to $15,000.

Goal	$104,361.73
Raised to date	89,362.23
Yet to be raised	14,999.50

* * *

When workers in Marion County's United War Chest brought in $26,463.61 at last night's third report meeting, boosting the total of pledges to $89,362.61, leaders confidently declared the goal "in sight" and sent out a call for "victory by Monday night at 6 o'clock."

This means the workers must scrape together $14,999.50 over the week-end, a job that seems within reach when a study of the scoreboard in the Masonic temple shows that some divisions are still in the "partial report" stages and that compartively few have reported all of their prospects contacted.

The rural division, for example, gave only a preliminary report last night, but turned in $2,127-60 from communities and farm canvassers.

Leaders Confident

J. E. Oliphant, president of the Marion Community Fund, R. E. White, general chairman, and Fred E. Guthery, who spoke briefly last night, all declared they are confident the goal will be reached if Marion county residents continue to give in proportion to the extraordinary needs this year—needs that have been trebled by the suffering of war victims throughout the world and the increased wartime activities of community-supported agencies within this country.

Two divisions went over the top last night. One was the women's general division headed by Mrs. Merle Hamilton, whose majors and captains turned in another $2,165.50 last night to give them a new total of $11,017.80 or $1,017.80 more than their quota. The other was the large industries which reported pledges totaling $38,140.97 or $4,115.97 more than the quota of this group, canvassed by a group headed by Charles Harmon.

Large Industrial Gifts

When the small industries' group reported last night, it had one of the prize individual returns of the entire campaign—a 478 per cent report from the Marion Brass & Bronze Co. This firm went all-out on the war chest drive, and the workers' generous support was more than matched by Richard A. Lau, head of the company, with a $1,000 personal gift, the drive workers were told.

The Marion Steam Shovel Co. turned in the biggest single pledge a $15,000 total that reaches the company's quota. In addition, the company has $3,100 laid back for the Red Cross. This report was made by William K. Hamor as part of the big industries' report last night. It represents the combined gifts of the workers and the company gift and was made possible largely through the cooperation of the labor-management organization, Mr. Hamor explained.

Osgood Co. Workers sent in a few more pledges that boosts their donations to 199½ per cent of their quota—one of the outstanding responses of the campaign.

Among Quota Breakers

Among the scores of quota-breaking pledges reported last night were the Erie railroad which is well over its quota with $4,223 reported, the city fire department and the Marion City hospital, Universal Cooler Corp. and the U. S. Rubber Co., operators of the Scioto Ordnance Plant and the U. S. Army Ordnance personnel at the ordnance plant. It was reported that every city school teacher, janitor and office worker has made a gift, and that the city school total amounts to $1,658.95.

Fred W. Hoch, chairman of the rural phase of the drive, reported that 106 community leaders throughout the county are just getting under way in the farm part of the canvass, and that in the meantime the villages are getting a good start on their work. He listed the following village reports: LaRue, $1,017; Prospect, $450; Morral, $405; Waldo, $62; Agosta, $57.50; Green Camp, $28. He also reported that the Hanley Engineering Co. at Prospect is working out a program whereby its employes now working on coast guard boats will make substantial donations to the campaign.

Division Standings

Here's how the various divisions stand with last night's contributions added in:

Big industries, $38,140.97.

Small industries, $3,866.80.

Public service, $13,347.75.

Retail chain stores, $5,277.95.

Independent retail stores, $4,806.11.

Financial institutions, $4,749.50.

Government workers, $3,130.25.

Public employes, $2,896.60.

General, $11,017.80.

County, $2,127.80.

The time for Monday night's final report meeting was set at 6

Air Attack Helps British Deepen Drive Against Axis

Cairo Reports Further Advance Into El Alamein Line; Report U. S. Troops Established in Liberia.

By DON WHITEHEAD
AP War Correspondent

CAIRO, Oct. 30 — Britain's eighth army has driven deeper into the axis' El Alamein line defenses in connection with a ceaseless allied air offensive taking steadily heavier toll in the enemy's rear, official reports from the front announced today.

At the end of the first week of the offensive to decide the fate of the Mediterranean, however, neither side apparently was ready to throw its main armored forces into the struggle—neither the British to exploit their gains nor the Germans to plug the menacing gaps in their lines.

Infantry was emphasized in a British communique which dealt mostly with the damaging blows on the axis from the air and reported the land action in these four sentences:

"During the night of Oct. 28-29 our infantry extended gains in ground formerly held by the enemy. A further number of German prisoners was taken.

"There were minor engagements with enemy armored troops yesterday on whom casualties were inflicted.

"Fighting continues."

U. S. Power Felt

The United States has tossed a lot of blue chips into the battle in the western desert and the weight of American industrial power is being felt more and more in this strategic theater of war.

America's biggest job in the Middle East is furnishing planes and crews to help the RAF batter the enemy from the air and supplying the eighth army with tanks, guns, munitions, and other equipment to carry forward on the ground.

The battle itself, now in its seventh day, is still in its initial phase. Dispatches from the front last night indicated the British gradually were getting into position to strike at the enemy's main force, but it may be a week before a crucial test of armored strength develops.

The race to feed American-made implements of war into the Middle East remains, meanwhile, one of the dramatic and little known phases of the struggle.

When this correspondent was enroute to Cairo less than a month ago the question often was heard: "When are American troops going into action in the desert?"

The answer is that American ground troops are not in combat in the Middle East. This show belongs principally to Britain's refreshed and reequipped eighth army, aided in the air by the RAF and the U. S. army air forces.

Cause for Pride

But the United States can take great pride in the fact that the British were able to make the first offensive move after the battering and the loss of materials which they suffered last summer. For it was American labor, factories and shipyards which put the tools into their hands that enabled them to strike.

Eritrea, one of Premier Mussolini's springboards in the conquest of Ethiopia, is now well developed as an arsenal for the United Nations. American mili-

LIGHT ABSENT VOTER TOTAL LISTED HERE

Taken To Indicate Below Normal Turnout Tuesday.

Indications of a light vote in the county Tuesday came today in a report of only 348 absent voters' ballots cast with the Marion county board of elections.

In 1938, regarded as one of the "light years" there were 645 ballots cast by absent voters. In 1940, one of the heaviest elections on record, 856 were cast.

Yesterday was the deadline for casting absent voters' ballots, except those from men in service, and civilians' mailed-in ballots which reached the board of elections by noon today. The time is past for sending out ballots to men in service, but returned ballots will be counted if they are filed with the proper precinct by 6:30 Tuesday night.

C. G. Ritzler, deputy in the board of elections office, said he felt the low number of absent voters' ballots might be due to the fact that many persons who in former years have gone south or west for the winter are staying home and that many Marion county men in service will not vote.

Cleveland Over Top In $5,000,000 Chest Drive

GAS RATIONING BOARD NAMED

Dates Set for Registration of Motor Vehicle Users in Marion County.

Appointment of the three men who will have the responsibility of the countywide gasoline rationing program, and plans for registration of consumers were announced today by Edgar W. Barnhart, chairman of the local rationing board.

The three-man board consists of Robert F. Williams of 145 Johnson street, salesmanager for the Coca-Cola Bottling Co., John W. Dowler of 120 North Greenwood street, secretary of the Aro Expansion Bolt Co., and Howard R. Geer of 518 Mt. Vernon avenue, president of the Anthony Laundry Co. Mr. Williams is chairman.

Marion county's participation in the nationwide gasoline rationing program will be handled in two phases:

Basic registration Nov. 9, 10 and 11.

Supplemental registration Nov 12 to 22 (tentative).

The basic registration will be conducted in city and county schools by the teachers. The plan will be much the same as that used at the time of registration for sugar. Details will be announced later.

Supplemental Period

All persons who feel they are legally entitled to more than the basic allowance of four gallons of gasoline a week may present their cases during the supplemental registration.

The supplemental registration will be handled by volunteers. The place where this registration will be conducted will be announced in the near future.

Several hundred volunteers will be needed to conduct the supplemental registration. Notice as to where and when the volunteers should register for work will be announced within a few days.

20 Per Cent To Get More

Rationing board officials estimate there are 15,000 automobiles in Marion county and that of this number about 30 per cent, or 4,500, will be eligible for more than the basic ration of four gallons. A period of 7 to 10 days probably will be required to conduct the supplemental registration, according to officials.

A field man from the office of price administration office in Columbus was here yesterday to discuss details of the two registrations with C. C. Holliday, secretary of the rationing board, and other officials. He informed the board that an instructor will be sent to Marion, probably early next week, to teach the volunteers who will work on the supplemental registration.

Charles Williams of Coast Guard Missing in Action

Parents of Former Marion Grid Player and State Patrolman Notified.

Charles Wilbur Williams, 20, of the United States coast guard, is missing in action, his parents, Mr and Mrs. Charles W. Williams of 386 Commercial street, were notified yesterday afternoon in a telegram from Vice Admiral R. R. Waesche, commandant.

The telegram, which came from Washington, D. C., stated:

"The navy department deeply regrets to inform you that your son, Boatswain's Mate, Second Class, Charles Wilbur Williams, U. S. coast guard, is missing following action in the performance of his duty and in the service of his country."

The message asked that to prevent possible aid to the enemy the name of the ship not be divulged, and stated that the parents will be notified as soon as additional information is received.

The last letter received from Williams, written on Sept. 10 from San Francisco, stated that his parents were not to worry if they did not hear from him for some time. Although he gave no indication of the type of ship on which he was serving, it is presumed he was leaving the coast for duty in the Pacific war area. He had been on west coast duty for the last year.

A graduate of Harding High school in 1922, and a tackle on the varsity football team, he enlisted in the coast guard in 1935 and saw his first active service during the Ohio river flood of 1936. In the years between his graduation and his enlistment he worked with his father, a general contractor.

At the close of three years in the coast guard he returned home and became a member of the state highway patrol, working out of the Wilmington station. After a year with the patrol he reenlisted in the coast guard and was sent to St. Maris, Mich. Later he was transferred to Lorain, O., and in June of 1941, after the navy took over the coast guard for active service, he was sent to the east coast. Later he was transferred to the west coast.

Williams' last visit home was a year ago this month.

He has two brothers and a sister, Willard W. Williams of 504 Oak street, John P. Williams of Bucyrus, and Mrs. Maggie Belle DeLouder, who lives at home.

SOVIET TANKS BLAST NAZIS

Red Troops Regain Another Defense Height in Western Caucasus.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Oct. 30—Red army tanks won a battle of armored forces to maintain Stalingrad's defense lines and Soviet troops regained another height in the West Caucasus, but numerically superior invaders compelled a retreat in the Malchik sector for the second successive day, the Russians said today.

Sixteen tanks of a German assault force were declared destroyed by tread-tracked Soviet machines barring their way in a Stalingrad factory area and the others withdrew, the noon communique said.

Although a German detachment drove up 50 to 100 yards to the edge of a factory ground during a costly assault by a tank-supported infantry division yesterday and fierce fighting continued in this 67th day of the siege, it was announced that "all attacks were repulsed and Soviet troops are firmly holding their positions." Killing of 1,500 Germans was claimed.

Capture of a height in the counterattacks northeast of Tuapse, a key Black sea port menaced by a Nazi pincers, was announced without detail.

WAR PLANT WORK IN "FINAL PHASES"

Scioto Ordnance Construction Moves Toward Completion.

Construction work at the Scioto Ordnance Plant is going into its final phases.

This gradual development was touched on today in statements by S. E. Hunkin, of the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co., general contractors, and Major Harold F. Ogden, commanding officer.

Mr. Hunkin, in a message to workers, said in part: "It is obviously apparent to many of you that this project is coming into the phase of completion and with the exception of those men whose work can be done under roof, the outside gangs will be continuously reduced both by weather and the completion of the outside grading, utilities and roads."

He reviewed briefly the scope of the construction work done since last April, thanked the workers for their cooperation in speeding the progress of the big construction project and pointed out that developments are far enough along that the U. S. Rubber Co., to operate the plant for the war department, is soliciting applications for employment both from men and women.

Major Ogden expressed pleasure over completion of the outside work such as utilities, grading, roads and building construction, before the advent of bad weather, making it possible for most of the rest of the construction work to proceed indoors.

TWO ASSAULTS REPULSED IN GUADALCANAL

Heavy Naval Drive Expected To Break Against Weaker American Forces.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—The navy announced today the American troops on Guadalcanal had destroyed 12 Japanese light tanks in the last week and that in the last two days torpedo boats had scored a torpedo hit on a Japanese destroyer which was engaged in reinforcing enemy troops on the island.

* * *

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—Stubbornly battering back more Japanese attacks, American troops hung grimly to their prized Guadalcanal airfield today as an ominous lull seemed to envelop operations of the huge enemy war fleet in the southwestern Pacific.

A terrific Nipponese naval onslaught in the Solomons area was expected to break shortly against admittedly inferior numbers of United States warships but, meanwhile, allied airpower lashed out at enemy vessels, planes, troops and installations over the wide battle front.

The navy reported yesterday that the American marines and army troops on Guadalcanal broke up three additional Japanese assaults on Oct. 27 (Solomons Islands time). The airfield defenders were thrown back by one heavy attack but countered quickly and regained their positions.

Importance of the airfield, captured by the U. S. marines early in August and desperately sought by the Japanese since, has been evidenced by the almost daily American aerial attacks on nearby enemy bases.

The latest air bombardment announced by the navy struck Japanese gun emplacements on western Guadalcanal, destroying an anti-aircraft battery and an ammunition dump.

Four Jap Seaplanes Hit

At the Japanese base in Rekata bay in the central Solomons, the American planes set shore installations aflame and destroyed four seaplanes boosting the Japanese plane toll to 413 since the campaign started.

Allied aircraft under Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Australian command continued to blast at enemy shipping in the Solomons. Flying fortresses straddle-bombed five unidentified vessels at the Japanese naval base at Buin, causing a heavy explosion on one ship.

Simultaneously, Australian troops were reported by MacArthur to be hurling the Japanese back in New Guinea.

An example of Japanese treachery in the South Pacific warfare also was made public by the navy yesterday in releasing a dispatch written by Sgt. Richard T. Wright, a marine corps combat correspondent.

Honoring a flag of truce borne by a Japanese officer, 28 of 30 marines were massacred when they sought to take custody of "a bunch of Japs" who, the officer said, were isolated on a nearby island and wanted to surrender.

Wiped Out by Gunfire

As the 30 marines drew near the island they were met without warning by "a terrific burst from several machine guns hidden in the underbrush," Wright wrote.

"They were mowed down like so many stalks of corn," he added, "except for the two who escaped and swam to safety."

Sgt. Wright's account of the Japanese treachery was obtained in an interview with Marine Private Paul Nunley of Lancaster, O., whom the correspondent interviewed in a navy mobile hospital somewhere in the Pacific.

At Lancaster, Private Nunley's father, David Nunley, an employe of the Anchor-Hocking Glass Co., said his son joined the marines seven months ago. He said he received a letter from his boy a month ago, telling that he had been wounded in the leg but giving no other details.

PREDICT LOW VOTE IN OHIO

Official Estimate Places Turnout at Polls Tuesday at 1,750,000.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 30—Unable to divert voters' minds from war to politics, Ohio political leaders and candidates experienced perhaps the most listless campaign in the state's history with prospects of a record low vote being cast next Tuesday.

Official estimates of the probable total vote were 1,750,000—slightly more than one-half the vote two years ago and about 700,000 under the 1938 total.

Chief interest centered in the contest for governor between the incumbent Republican John W. Bricker, who seeks a third term, and former Congressman John McSweeney, the Democratic candidate.

Other state officers to be chosen are lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, attorney general and three supreme court members. Voters also will choose 22 congressmen, complete membership of both houses of the state legislature, appellate court judges and some county officials.

Surplus Is Issue

Gubernatorial issues were limited mainly to a state treasury surplus of over $20,000,000 and the state's war effort. Congressional issues, particularly where incumbent Republicans were seeking reelection, were isolationism and prosecution of the war. Such issues were ineffectual in the primary as only one incumbent congressional candidate, Democrat Martin L. Sweeney in the 21st (Cleveland) district, was defeated.

Personalities crept into the gubernatorial fight with respect to records of the two candidates in the first World war. Old age pensions were injected as an issue late in the campaign by Democratic State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson who charged Governor Bricker with "political manipulation" of pensions, and asked President Roosevelt to order a federal investigation.

Democrats attacked the state treasury surplus on grounds that extra cash should have been distributed among local governments. Governor Bricker contended the money would be needed to offset declining revenues, prudent to rationing and priorities.

Calls War Effort Joke

McSweeney called the state's war efforts under Governor Bricker's direction a joke. Bricker retaliated by characterizing McSweeney's part as "malicious and positively unpatriotic."

Governor Prosser won a second term two years ago over former Gov. Martin L. Davey by 264,000 plurality, the largest ever given a gubernatorial candidate in Ohio, while President Roosevelt won the state by a plurality of 167,000. McSweeney, then a candidate for U. S. senator, lost by 145,000.

A Bricker victory this year, politicians believe, would make him a formidable "favorite son" candidate for the presidential nomination in 1944.

Republican leaders claim they are sure of retaining all their present 12 congressional seats and gaining at least three and possibly five or six.

Democrats claim that with a state ticket victory they would retain their present 12 congressional seats and probably add several more.

WORKMEN NEEDED AT ENGINEER DEPOT

Call Issued for Carpenters and Laborers.

A critical need for 20 carpenters and 25 laborers to keep work going at the Marion Engineer Depot was reported today by Donald S. Ruff of the civil service commission in Cincinnati, assigned here to expedite work at the depot.

Unless the men can be employed here, it will be necessary to hire men from outside the community because the work at the depot must go on, Mr. Ruff said.

He said he felt there were enough men who have been laid off war construction work that is completed to fill the jobs without going outside Marion. Men who want the work should apply to Mr. Ruff at the United States Employment Service office at 163 East Center street.

BATTLESHIPS AGAIN COME INTO FAVOR

Old Fashioned Slugging Match May Come Soon.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—War's high mortality rate of aircraft carriers—prime targets of modern fleet engagements—raised today the possibility that the heavily-armed battleship would regain temporarily its place as mistress of the seas.

Land based bombers, toting heavy loads of destruction and ranging thousands of miles in search of the enemy, appear destined to supercede both the battleship and the carrier as the No. 1 weapon of attack.

But, until mass production of such craft reaches a steady stream and until a network of bases for their operation can be developed, the destructive drain upon the carriers of both this nation and Japan has focused new attention on the battleship assets of each.

The navy has reported sinking and crippling a substantial part of Japan's carrier complement. At the same time it has acknowledged heavy blows to our carrier forces.

Possibility that the carriers eventually might be "stricken from the sea" and that the big battlewagons might then engage in an old-fashioned slugging match was raised in June by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the house naval committee during consideration of a measure to expand the navy's floating aerial striking strength.

"It may so happen that the enemy's aircraft carriers may be stricken from the sea," he told the house.

"It may so happen that ours will be stricken from the sea. And if that happens, and neither side has aircraft carriers to any great extent, then the battleships will [illegible] | resumed its high priority [illegible]

CHICAGO PAPER ANSWERS SUIT

...une Files Pleading in Gov...ment Action Against Associated Press.

The Associated Press

YORK, Oct. 30 — The ... of the Chicago Trib... a separate answer, con... Thursday in federal court ... anti-trust action against ... Associated Press would ... it from a private co... enterprise into a public ... subject to government... nation if it is compelled ... its membership rolls to ... rants.

... anti-trust laws of the ... States," the Tribune said, ... signed to prevent mono... to foster monopoly."

Robert R. McCormick and ... bune company expressed ... that if government domin... the Associated Press and ... ews agencies is effected it ... bolish free competition between newspapers and news agencies and end the world pre-eminence of the American press, which, they asserted, had been attained.

Assured of Freedom

The Tribune contended that news agencies are or instrumentality entering into the publication of newspapers and therefore are embraced by the constitutional guaranty of freedom of the press. This right would be abridged, they argued, if the court granted the government's request for an injunction under the anti-trust laws.

The defendants agreed with the government statement that the product of the Associated Press is of great national importance but disputed the contention that it must serve all newspapers needing or desiring its service On this point they said

"The AP is not a monopoly or a quasi public service corporation which, by reason of law or historical precedent, must serve all comers in the manner of innkeepers, common carriers and the like must serve everyone.

"If the government should succeed in subjecting the AP to this 'requirement', then AP, on account of the allegations that its service is indispensable to all newspapers, would shortly embrace in its membership practically all newspapers in the country, it would thus, by government fiat be transformed from a private enterprise into a public monopoly subject to governmental domination as to rates, service, operation and the like.

No Historical Precedent

"Since Tudor and Stuart times until this case, no government of an English-speaking people has attempted to establish a privilege, patent or monopoly of the dissemination of news The totalitarian states of today established monopolies for the purpose of dominating the lives of their peoples by domination of monopolies thus established The anti-trust laws of the United States were designed to prevent monopoly, not to foster monopoly."

The answer challenged what it asserted was the government's contention that "It is a prerogative to require news services to furnish news to any newspaper which applies, under the pretext that denial of such access constitutes restraint in trade in violation of the anti-trust laws" It was described by the defendants as "a subversion of the purposes and objects of the anti trust laws and contrary to the spirit and genius of a republican form of government"

The answer said the defendants rely upon the continued acquiescence of the government in the conduct of the AP from 1900 to filing of the complaint, the written approval of the department of justice to the legality of the AP operations in 1915 and "the failure to take action until this nation has become preoccupied with winning the war and has relaxed its vigilance to preserve guaranteed individual liberties."

The Patriotism of Insulation

If every home owner in the United States would insulate his home, this war might end more quickly. This is no idle theory. It is a fact. Vouched for by almost every heating expert in the country. Insulation is to war what low speeds are to rubber tires. They both save valuable, vital materials without which we can not win.

BRICKER, M'SWEENEY MAKE FINAL BID

Campaign To Reach Climax in Cleveland Tomorrow.

By The Associated Press

Ohio's gubernatorial candidates centered their vote-getting efforts in the state's two largest cities—Cleveland and Cincinnati—today as the fall campaign neared its climax.

Gov. Bricker scheduled appearances in Cleveland and Toledo, while his opponent, John McSweeney, went to Cincinnati.

The campaign reaches its climax tomorrow afternoon when the Republican governor engages the Democrats' standard bearer in a debate in the Cleveland City club.

Both candidates made public appearances last night. McSweeney, addressing a Democratic rally in Steubenville, reiterated charges that Governor Bricker had placed Ohio's old age pensioners on "the political auction block" and asserted that November pension checks would be smaller than those distributed in October.

The governor, speaking at Cleveland, said his administration had expanded the state's health and welfare services despite "extreme" economies. He cited particularly his administration's support of a bill to grant legal status to hospital associations, claiming it had given thousands of Ohioans low-cost hospital service.

Democratic State Chairman Darrell Jones, in an address prepared for radio broadcast at Columbus, compared Bricker's record as a war governor with that of Gov. James M. Cox who was in office during the first World war. Jones enumerated the war accomplishments of Cox, and asserted that Bricker had done nothing.

In another speech prepared for radio delivery, Ross Boggs, chairman of the Franklin county AFL affiliates praised Governor Bricker's labor record and termed McSweeney's "unsatisfactory," accusing the Democratic candidate of ducking voting on many controversial measures of "vital importance to labor" when he served in congress.

At Cleveland, Sen. Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati Republican, predicted Bricker would be reelected to a third term by a majority of 150,000 to 200,000 votes.

To Train Physicians for Gas Attacks

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 30—Special schools to train physicians and nurses in methods of protecting civilians in event of enemy gas attacks will be held throughout Ohio, Ralph H. Stone, state defense director, announced today.

Stone stressed the importance of training as many doctors and nurses as possible in methods of combatting chemical warfare not covered in regular medical training and said the "possibility of gas warfare must be considered in preparing civilians for enemy air raids and sabotage."

The first training course will be offered at Columbus Nov. 16. Others will be held here Nov. 23 and 27. Schools will be conducted in Cincinnati, Dayton, Toledo, Cleveland, Akron and Youngstown on dates to be announced later.

The state health department, the Ohio State Medical association and several universities will cooperate in the training.

BAN ON CAMERAS ALONG LAKE ERIE

Order Affects Shore Line and Navigable Streams.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 30—Don't take your camera along if you're going near the waters of Lake Erie or any of its navigable tributaries.

Cameras are taboo in these areas under a new rule announced by the coast guard district headquarters here as a protection to wartime shipping and commerce on these waters.

Cleveland's entire waterfront now is a restricted area patrolled 24 hours a day by gun-bearing guards who challenge all visitors to the city's harbor and shoreline.

As a further precaution against sabotage, Captain R. W. Dempwolf of the coast guard redefined and extended the area in which cameras are prohibited. This district now reaches as far south as Wadsworth, O.; west to the Ohio-Indiana line; east to Dunkirk, N. Y., and north to the Ohio-Michigan line and the international boundary in Lake Erie.

The ban on taking pictures applies to all waterfront facilities in this area. The regulation also prohibits cameras or other photographic apparatus on board any vessel carrying war materials in these waters.

Antidote for Bad News

WHEN the news is very bad, as it has been concerning the battle for the Solomons, there is always one antidote ready for use.

The United States is capable of taking bad news without falling apart at the seams. Its enemies are not. Their leaders do not trust them to know what is going on.

German, Japanese and Italian reverses are twisted into successes, or dismissed as of no particular importance. Major disasters are hushed up entirely. If Adolf Hitler were to tell Germany the real extent of its losses in Russia, he might crack the home front wide open—and he knows it.

Following the example of the British, who have insisted on hearing the worst and using it to fire their determination to do better, Americans have been getting their bad news without sugar coating. There have been delays in releasing communiques, but ultimately the worst has been made known.

It is being made known now, and it is about as disheartening as it could be. Evidently there has been a bad situation in the Solomons for a long time, and it probably will get much worse before it can get any better. Our confidence is going to get a jolt-right on the chin. It may take more than the usual amount of remembering that "Americans can take it" to keep them from wondering whether they want to keep on trying to take it.

Farm Production Costs Rising

DISAGREEMENT over administration of the economic stabilization law's provisions governing farm prices calls attention again to the blind spot in government's farm policy. This is its failure to admit that an adequate food supply depends on incentive to produce.

In industry incentive to produce is guaranteed by retention of the 40-hour week, with overtime rates for extra time. Government contracts make allowances for rising costs of production. No one would dream of expecting an industrial plant to produce tanks at a price representing a loss to its managers and employes. Both capital and labor are guaranteed an approximation of their own idea of reasonable reward.

Only in the case of food producers does government take the attitude that there is no alternative but production, regardless of incentive. If farm production costs are rising, due largely to the government's policy encouraging them to rise in industry, that is too bad. However, there seems to be a possibility that farmers are beginning to get attention for their warning that it means more than a tough break for food producers. If enough producers are driven to the wall, it's going to mean hunger for everybody.

Jackpot for Jobholders

IF THESE were ordinary times, the world's largest office building, just being completed in Washington, would get the attention it deserves.

Here is the jackpot for jobholders in the capital, a sprawling monument to the triumph of bureaucracy in the United States. Statistics on the monstrosity, known as the "Pentagon," deal with incredible distances and spaces, but they merely reflect the incredible numbers of paper clippers and rubber stampers now populating Washington. The "Pentagon" alone will house no less than 40,000 of the millions of federal employes supposedly needed to look after the welfare of voters.

The thought of that vast pile of stone, brick, steel and plaster crawling with clerks, stenographers, messengers and third assistant thises and thatses is stirring. Perhaps in the years to come it may become one of the favored objectives of tourists wanting to see the Washington native in his habitat. Perhaps by charging the tourists a dollar for a tour, the thing might even be made to pay for some minor detail of its operating cost, such as the paper drinking cups.

OLD ZING HAS HIS WOES

It seemed his hounds had killed a skunk, and, of course, Zing's old lady won't let them come in the house, and when playing for a country dance recently Zing mistook a chunk of asafetida for resin and now he has to keep his fiddle and bow in the woodshed.—Gilman City Tribune.

News Behind the News

Kink in Salary Limitation Order Straightened Out by Jimmy Byrnes.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—Economic Stabilizer Jimmy Byrnes stabilized an important unnoticed wrinkle out of Mr. Roosevelt's executive order on the $25,000 salary limitation.

Mr. Roosevelt's order directed that salaries be limited to $25,000 "after payment of taxes allowable to the same in excess of $25,000." This would really have cut the maximum allowable national salary to $15,000, as the taxpayer would have been required to pay on the average around $10,035 (married with no dependents) in taxes on his $25,000.

But the Byrnes regulations came forth with some legalistic mumbo jumbo which seems to mean different. It says:

"No amount of salary . . . shall be paid . . . after reduction by federal income taxes on the amount of such salary, would exceed $25,000."

This means, according to official interpreters, that the taxpayer will get $25,000 net.

In truth, instead of limiting his actual salary to that figure, it means that on an average about $67,000 can be paid to the individual—a horse of a different color than has been painted in the announcements and headlines.

Ghormley

The navy has followed old line procedure on the transfer of Admiral Ghormley and his fleet commander from the Pacific. No explanation has been offered beyond the bare announcement of orders.

Stories are being told among congressmen that the three cruisers lost there were not wide awake, and that this circumstance caused the decision to transfer Ghormley shortly thereafter, although that decision was not announced until now. The cruisers, however, were lost the night of Aug. 8-9 in the opening of offensive operations, the first landing of the Marines, and it is hard to believe they could have been asleep.

The date of Ghormley's orders has not been given, but it is understood to be much more recent than the cruiser sinkings. Apparently, it came a few weeks ago, following the far more costly sinking of the aircraft carrier Wasp, which was caught by a submarine in a manner not fully explained.

Ordinarily, dispositions of destroyers and air scouts from an aircraft carrier are supposed to protect her, and generaly do, but this one got in three torpedoes.

Another of our aircraft carriers was also hit, and no claim has been made that either of the Jap submarines was sunk.

The change in Pacific commands may be more fully explained when the details of these losses are made public.

Land

AFL is supposed to be working up a report against buffeted maritime commission Chairman Emory Land, which will tighten the spot into which he is being pushed by union labor groups.

Ostensibly, this new drive against Land is being predicated on the suggestion, made in a New York speech, that union labor organizers during this war should be shot at sunrise, or something approximating that. The suggestion was obvious hyperbole, as Land did not draw a pistol, and no serious movement to shoot anyone has yet been started.

The roots of AFL resentment against Land, however, run back into the closing of the Higgins yards in New Orleans and the repurchase, after the war, of some ships sold before the war.

Pending in the senate naval committee is Land's nomination to be a full admiral, where it has strangely met delay. It was submitted by the President some weeks ago, before the New York remarks. Labor, which has influence on that committee, may be able to hold up the promotion indefinitely.

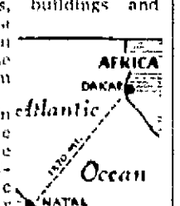
Ocean Eye of Africa

Dakar, a Modern City of 120,000.

Wide World Features

Dakar, Vichy-controlled capital of French West Africa on which world attention is focussing, is a modern city with beautiful parks, buildings and streets and a population of 120,000—one sixth of them whites.



Established in 1857 by the French at the tip of the African Atlantic Coast, Dakar serves as Africa's eye upon sea trade from Western Europe, South Africa and South America. It is only 1,800 miles from Brazil. Its present importance dates from 1898, when it was developed as a military port. Today several miles of docks and modern installations permit handling of all kinds of merchandise and safe anchorage for the largest ships. Imports and exports normally total 1,280,000 tons a year. Peanuts are the main cash crop of nearby Senegal.

Dakar connects by rail to St. Louis, at the mouth of the Senegal River, and to Bamako on the Nigerin's headwaters. A road is also believed under construction to link Bamako with Morocco in North Africa.

War has curbed continental living of Dakar's officer and official class. Sugar and wine are rationed, half-pound a week per person is the limit on bread. Gas restrictions make charcoal-burning autos common.

Unlike many other tropical cities, Dakar has plenty of good water, is fairly healthful.

Has Salvage Plan

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES—Ships that go to the bottom through enemy torpedo action would be salvaged intact if the invention of Lieut. Harry E. Rieseberg works. A former bureau of navigation officer, he has applied for a patent on an immense pair of tongs which would be lowered from a floating dry dock and engage sunken vessels.

Rieseberg, who has had experience in salvage work, believes the hulks could be hoisted to the surface at the rate of 2,500 feet in twelve hours.

Extinct Buffalo

By The Associated Press

OMAHA—For 65 years the Union Pacific railroad bridge over the Missouri river was adorned on the western end by a giant buffalo head to symbolize the west, and on the eastern end by a large bas relief, whose design of a plow, an anchor and steam hammer symbolized eastern industry.

But no more, for the historical pieces, cast in 1887 by Etienne Favy of New York City are to be salvaged for their high copper bronze content. The buffalo head, 7½ feet high, is estimated to contain 2,400 pounds of bronze, the bas relief 1,000 pounds.

Rebuffs Evaders

By The Associated Press

PAPEETE, Tahiti—Three small cutters bearing Americans which have arrived here since the United States went to war are viewed with suspicion by authorities as possibly containing draft evaders. Regardless of this, French officials warn that advance official permission is necessary to land on Tahiti, and the arrivals were allowed only a limited time in port. The first vessel departed for South America.

Words of the Wise

Anything that slows down the war production, whether it's bickering between the services as to priorities, or slow-down strikes, is just as much sabotage against America as if it came from the enemy.—(Roane Waring, Commander, American Legion)

A Nazi or a Jap victory would spell the death of liberty everywhere in the Western Hemisphere. And something else would die — an intangible something which has been taking shape gradually over the years, as the peoples of the New World have been groping for a special destiny all their own.—(Henry A. Wallace)

Disturbed moments of history such as the present can be made creative moments. The troubles and dangers that we are undergoing may be but a prelude to new and better times.—(Dr. Harold W. Dodds)

Christ did not simply speak the truth: He was truth, truth, through and through; for truth is a thing not of words, but of life and being.—Robertson.

What we have in us of the image of God is the love of truth and justice.—Demosthenes.

No greater task challenges a bold and progressive generation than to so organize the scattered forces of the world that they may be brought to the support of its moral judgments and to implement well-meant pledges with sanctions which make them really law.—(Supreme Court Justice Robt. H. Jackson)

Union Union Now?

May Come Soon, but With Lewis' U. M. W. Out.

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—There are so many obstacles in the way of that so-called "labor peace" that many concerned will pass snap judgment that it can't happen here. But off-the-record observers within the labor movement and without are almost unanimous: A consolidation of the CIO and AFL, with practically all independent unions except the United Mine Workers (John L. Lewis) stringing along, may happen any day now.

Three Basic Reasons

For the moment, let's not consider the obstacles. They have been recited before in this report and others. The reasons for consolidation are:

(1) The war, with its attendant manpower and wage-control legislation, has taken away from warring labor factions the weapons with which they fought each other.

(2) Labor's most potent weapons for maintaining the gains they have made and righting wrongs that still exist are: (a) Labor leaders who hold key jobs in Washington, such as those on the War Labor Board, in the Manpower commission, and in the Department of Labor; and (b) the Washington Labor lobby.

(3) Most of the AFL and several groups in the CIO have been waiting for a long time to catch John L. Lewis far enough off base to put him out.

Under the heading of (1) comes the fact that both William Green (AFL) and Philip Murray (CIO) have pledged no strikes for the duration. While this has not yet become an accomplished fact, those pledges eliminate sanctioned jurisdictional strikes, as well as those involving wages, hours, and working conditions.

Vital Factor

Public opinion is also a vital factor in this matter of strikes and operates importantly against demands for excessive wages and shorter hours.

These things force labor to look for (2) representatives in the war government and an influential lobby that can make itself felt whenever labor legislation is in the offing. In both cases, a split labor movement defeats its main objective and the old saw, "In union there is strength," becomes too apparent to need further elucidation.

From the very first defense move, the administration has given labor its representatives within and has shown an inclination to listen to the voices of labor without. It is only when those "voices without" have been in discord that labor has lost ground.

There is no need here to go further into (3). Lewis and his battles with the AFL and more recently with his own original CIO are pretty well known. It is sufficient to point out that Lewis gained most of his original strength from his "stand-in" with the administration. He gave that up when he opposed Roosevelt for the third term.

Decision To Abolish Colorf War Outfit Was Backed by of Its Own Veterans.

By DAMON RUNYO

G. E. SEAMAN, treasurer of Lor chapter of the Rainbow Division the outfit that was officially the 42nd in World war I, explains why the Rainbow in this war, though all the o divisions of Gen. Pershing's command revived.

He says that at the annual reunio Rainbow Veterans in Atlantic City the question was brought up as to or not they should press the gover form a new 42nd division. After discussion it was decided that inasmuch national guard regiments which had the original Rainbow had been assign various other divisions, it would that they do nothing about having Rainbow created.

The veterans were led to believe, man states, that there would be no division in this war and with that in national Rainbow division, located Mills, Garden City, Long Island, the of the outfit, bears an inscription cre Mr. Seaman to Gen. Summerall, who the Rainbows for a time, reading:

1917

To the Rainbow Division which fi pied Camp Mills and which went glorious victories on the battle f France, this monument is erected veterans.

Its mission fulfilled, it vanished to no more but its name and fame to hearten future generations to answ country's call.

THIS seems to dispose of the ques which many veterans of World w cluding some former members of the itself, who apparently do not keep reunion doings, had no answer. The there could be but one Rainbow an another, which of course, is rather distinction for the famous division. if any other outfit of the A. E. F. singled out in this manner.

However, I must say I find a few of the Rainbow who are not happy a honor, especially when they see soldie ing the insignia of the other divi Pershing's mighty army and thus keep in this war the memory of those organ These veterans would be pleased to vari-colored half crescent of the 42nd shoulders of some of the new soldiers, because it would give them the op of surrounding the kids and telling the deeds of the original Rainbow on t fronts of France.

IT IS TRUE that the national guard of New York, Alabama, Ohio, Iow nesota and the other states that were sented in the original have been pre scattered, but then the makeup of ma divisions of World war I that have vived for this war is not at all the sa 1917. And (I am repeating the argu dissenting veterans) many of the repla necessary to the 42nd before the end war I were not from the states of its representation anyway, so what would it make if a new 42nd was from everywhere?

But, you understand, this is a sort o matter with the Rainbow veterans and I a point not to horn into family argu just want you to know why there is no division in the war business at this time

War Brings Increase In Delinquency Among Girls

Nationwide Survey Shows Increase in Teen-Age Vice and Disease Increase in Some Cities.

Wide World Features

America is having teen-age girl trouble.

Here are some symptoms of this war-time affliction, as reported by officials in widely-scattered localities:

Increasing disease and illegitimate births among young girls.

The number of girls following soldiers across the country to army camps.

A tendency among some girls to think it patriotic to "go the limit."

The leaving of girls, and boys too, to their own devices by war-working parents.

And who's to blame?

The parents, in the opinion of several public officials and authorities interviewed in a national survey by Wide World Features.

The delinquency trend is confirmed by reports from half a dozen large industrial and military centers but in some cities officials assert there is no undue increase when increasing population is considered.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt called attention recently to an increase in illegitimacy among young girls and suggested expanded recreational facilities to combat such evils.

Curfew Sought

Before that, Judge Jacob Panken of Children's Court in New York, demanding a sundown curfew in the city's parks, asked that schools be kept open at night as recreation centers. Since the war started, he said, New York's delinquency rate for children under 4 has increased 41 per cent, and for those 14 to 17, 22 per cent.

Adult modes of dress for girls are a partial excuse for service men involved, he said, and parents who do not watch over their children are partly to blame.

"Careless and naive parents" are blamed by Judge Walter H. Beckham in Miami, where a 50 per cent increase in delinquency among girls is reported.

Patriotism a Factor

Patriotic fervor seems to motivate many of the girls, says an official of the Miami police juvenile bureau.

On the west coast the whole problem has been highlighted by the case of two Oregon girls, 12 and 13 years old, who hitch-hiked to San Francisco and lived Cinderella lives for three months, at a price, in the best hotels and night clubs. The case became a city scandal and curfew rules for youngsters were imposed.

"There is nothing new about juvenile delinquency or adult degeneracy," editorialized the San Francisco Chronicle, "but the instability and hysteria of wartime now enlarge an always baffling problem."

The chairman of the Illinois defense council's committee on youth and welfare, Samuel R. Ryerson, holds parents largely responsible for the troubles of young girls enamored of uniformed boys.

"Mothers should not take jobs or devote all their time to patriotic projects," he asserts "if they have to let their children run wild. The blunt truth is that illegitimacy and venereal disease are spreading rapidly among girls in the lower age groups."

Proxy Parents Suggested

A suggestion for proxy parents for war workers' children has been made by Lillian J. Johnson of Seattle to a conference on childhood and youth in wartime.

In Los Angeles, where gangs of boys have been troublesome, Judge Ben B. Lindsey, pioneer jurist in juvenile and domestic relations, calls child delinquents "home front casualties," and says cases will increase unless understanding action is taken.

With girls trekking to gulf coast army camps on the trail of soldier boys, Miss Susan K. Gillean, secretary of the child welfare association in New Orleans, fears what winter will bring. There is the recurrent problem, she reports, of girls following soldiers to marry them. They don't get married and drift from one soldier to another.

St. Louis, with one of the lowest delinquency rates of any large U. S. city, has started a citywide youth program to eliminate the threat of a more serious outbreak than the increases reported by the juvenile court in recent months. Several Wichita officials say there have been increases of as much as 25 per cent in the delinquency rate there, although one doubted it was unusual in view of the population increase.

An actual decrease in per capita delinquency was reported by Superior Judge William G. Long in Seattle. Social agencies in the Puget Sound area have been alarmed however by girl and soldier situations, says it's largely the girls' fault in dressing like adults.

Norfolk, Boston and Detroit officials, recognizing the potentialities of the situation, say vigilance has kept it within bounds.

Some Suggested Solutions Listed

Here are some solutions suggested by various authorities for the child delinquency problem:

More recreational facilities.

Early curfew hours on parks and streets.

Parents tending to the job of parenthood.

Proxy parents for children of war workers.

Committee Asks WPB To Explain Order

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—A congressional subcommittee has called high-ranking officials of the war production board to appear Monday and explain a WPB order halting the issuance of priority certificates for private home building, it was disclosed today.

Representative Hebert, Democrat of Louisiana, a member of the subcommittee, charged that congress was promised specifically by WPB officials last summer before appropriating additional money for war housing that "private industry would be given an even break with public building."

He said the WPB order was "an unexplainable reversal of form," and added:

"It's about time that these bureaus recognize the fact that they are creatures of congress and not the congress their creature, merely existing for the purpose of writing blank checks."

Here It Is!
How Congressman Smith
HELPED JAPAN
As Told To You In His OWN Words

This is a friendly reply to Congressman Dr. Frederick C. Smith's advertisement in the papers throughout the Eighth District in which he asks his opponent who armed Japan.

In the Marion Star, Page 13, Oct. 31, 1940, Congressman Smith in his own paid advertisement says:

HE VOTED AGAINST THE DEFENSE OF GUAM ISLAND IN THE FAR PACIFIC BECAUSE IT IS TOO FAR REMOVED FROM "OUR SPHERE OF DEFENSE."

Can you imagine a man advertising a statement like that in a campaign for Congress?

Doctor Smith actually paid the Marion Star to publish this example of his bad judgment in helping Japan by opposing the defense of Guam Island because in his wrong opinion he says it is too far removed from "our sphere of defense."

Ask the fathers and mothers of the American Marines slaughtered by the Japs on Guam Island what they think of Congressman Smith's idea that Guam Island is too far removed to bother about defense.

HOW HIROHITO THE JAP WOULD VOTE

Had Hirohito, the Jap, represented this Eighth District in Congress instead of Dr. Smith then Hirohito, the Jap, would have voted exactly the same way Dr. Smith voted. But it is not likely that he would have advertised his act in the newspapers to the people of this Eighth District and then expected them to elect him to Congress next Tuesday, November 3d.

In his own words Dr. Smith advertises in the newspaper how he indirectly failed America and helped Japan.

Do the people need any more proof that the Eighth Ohio District should have a new Congressman to back up our soldiers and government in winning the war and winning the peace after the war?

LOOK AT THIS PICTURE

When you look at the murdered American Marine's helmet hanging from the bloody bayonet of the Japanese soldier, ask yourself if it is fair to our American Marine fighters and the soldiers on all fronts to keep in Congress from this district after Tuesday, November 3, a congressman who lacks the judgment and foresight to recognize the dangers facing America.

In this picture look at the Japanese flag flying on Guam Island where once the Stars and Stripes were unfurled.
CONGRESSMAN SMITH WAS WRONG

Congressman Smith says in his advertisement, Page 13, Oct. 31, 1940, Marion Star:

HE VOTED AGAINST AN AIRPLANE CARRIER BILL BECAUSE "WE DO NOT NEED AIRPLANE CARRIERS TO DEFEND OUR SHORES."

It is almost terrifying to think what could happen to America if by any chance any large percentage of the Members of Congress should be handicapped by such bad judgment and lack of foresight as Congressman Smith advertises when he said "WE DO NOT NEED AIRPLANE CARRIERS TO DEFEND OUR SHORES."

IN WARTIME IT IS DANGEROUS TO KEEP IN CONGRESS MEN OF DR. SMITH'S BAD JUDGMENT!

If Congressman Smith used such bad judgment in opposing America's Defense Plans BEFORE the war, what kind of judgment could he be expected to use when Peace Plans are up for consideration AFTER the war.

Ask any of the one hundred and fifty American Marines who on Dec. 13, 1941, fought for sixty hours in defense of Guam Island, which Congressman Smith refused to help fortify,—ask for their votes on congressional candidates if they could be here next Tuesday.

LET US PUT AMERICANISM ABOVE PARTISANISM AND ON NEXT TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 3rd ELECT BROOKS FLETCHER TO CONGRESS!

NON-DEFENSE COSTS UNDER PRESSURE

Senator Takes Lead in Paring Spending to Bone.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—Heads of government agencies may be called into unprecedented conferences soon in an effort to pare non-war expenditures to the bone in the new budget to be submitted to congress in January.

Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), acting chairman of the appropriations committee, told reporters he intended to arrange meetings early next month at which legislators could go over prospective budget requests with department chiefs and urge them to cut down as much as possible on purely civilian activities.

In the past, congress has had little insight into prospective expenditures until the President's budget recommendation was submitted in January.

McKellar said he and other economy-minded senators were interested in trimming out non-essential items before they got into the budget, convinced that some substantial savings could be made that way.

Beyond that, he said a joint committee on government expenditures headed by Senator Byrd (D-Va) would resume its watchdog role.

Records showed congress thus far had appropriated about $73,-200,000,000 for the current fiscal year, which ends next June 30. Of that amount, $66,870,000,000 was tagged as war appropriations and only $6,230,000,000 for non-war purposes.

From the latter amount, $1,-675,000,000 representing the interest on the public debt would have to be subtracted.

SEVEN ARRESTED ON TRAFFIC CHARGES

Three Speeding Cases Follow Marion-Bucyrus Grid Game.

Seven arrests and citations for traffic violations yesterday and last night were reported by the state highway patrol. Three are believed to have been the result of over-exuberance following the 26-0 Harding victory over Bucyrus last night.

A stream of cars poured down Route 4 about 10:30, the patrol reported, and apparently in the excitement of the decisive football victory the drivers overlooked the fact that there are traffic laws, including a federal regulation of 35-miles-an-hour on speed.

John Lee, 20, of 519 Polk street, cited for reckless operation, and T. E. Solomon of 814 Woodrow avenue, cited for speeding, were to appear in Marion municipal court today.

Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast will hear the case of a 17-year-old boy charged with speeding.

Fred Unger, 47, of Bucyrus, posted $20 bond for his appearance in mayor's court at Bucyrus tonight when he was arrested about 8:15 last night on Route 4 and charged with reckless operation.

The alleged 90-miles-an-hour speed of Robert Winkley, 21, of Indianapolis, Ind., on Route 4, south of Bucyrus, about 11:40 last night brought a citation to appear in mayor's court at Bucyrus tonight for speeding.

Donald Foust of West Jefferson, O., charged with passing another vehicle on a hill on Route 23, north of Delaware, was fined $10 and costs when he was taken before Mayor Hosea Spaulding of Delaware yesterday morning. Robert Mooney, 39, of Chicago, charged with speeding on Route 30-N, near Bucyrus, was fined $10 and costs in mayor's court at Bucyrus.

Runaway Team Crashes Into Truck at Galion

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 30—What might have been ordinary news about 40 years ago, provided an old-fashioned "thriller" to witnesses in Galion Friday.

Frightened by a group of school children, a team of horses, owned by Alonzo Beltz of west of Galion, ran away on Cherry street, taking with them their wagon they were drawing, their driver, Milton Miller and his companion, George Harrington.

The team and wagon were proceeding west on the street when the horses became frightened, ran to the intersection of Fellows street where they crashed into the rear of a French Dry Cleaning company truck, pushing it against an electric light pole.

No one was injured, but Harrington was thrown from the wagon.

DR. WARREN SAWYER IN OFFICERS' CLASS

Receives Commission in Graduation Program.

Dr. and Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer of White Oaks Farm left yesterday for Carlisle Barracks, Pa., where today their son, Dr. Warren C. Sawyer was graduated in the 16th Officers' class from the Medical Field Service School at Carlisle Barracks, and received his commission as a first lieutenant. The class included 560 officers.

The graduation ceremony, which closed the one-month training course, was held in the War Department theater where each officer received his diploma from Brigadier-General Addison D. Davis, Commandant of the School and Assistant Surgeon General of the Army. In his address to the graduates, General Davis cautioned the men on the importance and seriousness of the work that lay before them in the dual role they will have to play in this war as physicians and soldiers.

A brief history of the post was given by Col. Albert S. Dabney, medical corps assistant commandant of the Medical Field Service school, who stressed its long and honored existence as the oldest Army post in the country still in active use and the important part it has played in the training of medical department officers.

Dr. Sawyer enlisted for service early in September, and before entering officers' training was stationed at Westover field at Chicopee Falls, Mass.

This Is Your Fight

What You Can Do To Help Win It

This is the second of a series of articles explaining how YOU can help speed victory for the United Nations. This article discusses your job in wartime.

—— Your Job ——

DAY by day the United States moves closer toward conscription of labor under the principle of universal selective service. Factory workers would be chiefly affected, but the principle would apply to all civilians.

Meanwhile, it is your patriotic duty to see that your daily efforts are directed into channels that help speed victory and the end of World war 2.

If you are working at your highest skill in a war plant and doing what you think is a satisfactory job, your best bet is to hold on to that job. Be patriotic. Don't jump from job to job for a few cents more an hour.

If you're in a non-essential civilian industry it is your patriotic duty to apply for work at your highest skill in a definite war production plant. Don't forget: any person who desires work in war production needn't hesitate about applying.

Anyone physically fit and over 18 years of age is eligible. Men with physical handicaps will be employed in many instances if they have mechanical training or experience. Plants will train unskilled applicants.

Job applications may be placed with the United States employment service office at 163 East Center street or at plant personnel offices. A birth certificate and social security card generally are required.

Training and experience acquired always will be useful. All such work is a definite part of the vastly important production battle.

Men and women engaged in non-essential work may prepare for war jobs by taking vocational defense training courses day and night in government sponsored courses at the Harding High school vocational shop.

They may register for such classes as machine shop and welding at the United States employment service office at 163 East Center street.

Men and women now in war work may take supplemental courses through arrangements with their employers or the employment service. However, they should consult their employers first. There are no fees.

In-plant taining is available in a large number of our industries.

Civil service offers salaried positions in many fields directly related to the war effort. Need for men and women is so great that many of the peacetime regulations which limited eligibility have been abolished or modified.

In many instances the only age limit is the minimum of 18 and written examinations have been eliminated, selection being based on experience and training.

Physical requirements are not severe. Appointments generally are for the duration of the war or for no more than six months thereafter.

The U. S. civil service lists several hundred jobs in these fields, aeronautical, automotive, clerical, engineering, architectural, marine, ordnance, medical, nursing, radio, scientific, etc.

Complete information regarding positions and application forms may be obtained from F. W. Bryant at the registry window in the Marion postoffice.

If you are a farmer experiencing a labor shortage you are asked to go to the United States employment service office, where every effort will be made to alleviate the condition.

The employment office also is a labor procurement agency for civilian workers for nearly all branches of armed services and for government departments, bureaus and agencies.

It tries to locate stenographers for work in Washington; firemen for the signal corps, men for the merchant marine; storekeepers for Wright Field at Dayton and scores of other persons with special skills whose services are needed in the U. S. and even overseas.

MURDER on the Campus

By JERRY BRONDFIELD

CHAPTER TEN

Confession

"WHEN I found out, I called Dad long distance," Susan continued, hardly daring to look at Todd as she spoke. "It preyed on my mind. I didn't know what you might think if you found out."

Her spirit rose then and she turned on him somewhat fiercely. "So I called Dad, and he told me the truth about it. He told me your father didn't really deserve to be in prison....that he was framed by a sneaking police inspector who had sworn to get him because your father had prevented him from getting away with something shady. Dad didn't tell me exactly what. But he said he had orders to get this evidence on Duke. Evidence that had been planted. Dad tried to get out of the assignment but he couldn't.

"It was dirty business as far as he was concerned and he wanted no part of it. But he was helpless. There were people high up in the department who were with this police inspector. So Dad had to work on it.

"You know as well as I do what it was," she said a little desperately. "They framed an extortion charge on him and made it stick....Said he was trying to get large sums from city officials on alleged gambling debts."

More out of sympathy than anything else she took his arm. It was hard as steel and it jerked slightly in her grasp. It was only a reflex, but she let it go.

"I'm sorry, Todd," she whispered. "That's how it is. It's a rotten mess all the way around, but now that it's off my chest I feel better."

The Kiss

Not a word passed between them for almost two hundred yards. Finally they came to the Delta Sig house. He walked up the slight hill with her, up to the stone steps to the porch. The water dripped over the edge of the roof and made a tiny rivulet all the way to the ground. At the door she turned around and faced him.

"I won't blame you if you suddenly decide you dislike me," she said. "But I want you to know I'm on your side, Todd. I think you're a swell kid, and I'm sorry I didn't get to know you better before all this happened."

She held out her hand. "Let's at least shake," she said with a small tired smile.

The light from a street lamp across the street dodged hesitatingly through the trees, sneaked in across the porch and sent one small beam across her face.

The pattern of light broke and reshaped itself as tree branches swayed back and forth in the rain.

Todd looked at her hand, then her face. She saw a slight, troubled furrow cross his brow and one corner of his cheek twitch.

Then in a sudden, quick second his hands had gripped her shoulders and swung her toward him. One arm slid around her, crushing her to his chest, and then he kissed her, full on the mouth, hard but soft. The pressure of his arm on her back was so tight she gasped slightly.

He released her then, almost as suddenly as he had taken her into his arms, and the physical reaction of his release was so great that she stumbled slightly. The first clear thought that flashed through her mind was that she had never before known love like that.

When she regained her composure she said, "I'll be ready at eight o'clock. Don't be late. I'm not going to wait around for you."

"I expected you to say that," he said steadily. "I don't know what to say except that I'm sorry. I don't know what I'm going to do about it. I'm not going to let you go. I'll be ready at eight o'clock. Don't be late. I'm not going to wait around for you."

She nodded her head. "I know what you mean, Todd. So you want to let it go at that?"

She shook her head again. "And we can't shake hands, can't we?" she asked. He took her hand then. When she went inside she watched him through the window as he walked on up the street.

Seated in front of her mirror, Susan brushed her hair slowly. Anne sat up in bed and looked at her curiously.

"I just asked you a question or didn't you hear me? You look like in some kind of a trance. Susan, I'm sorry. Anne. No, I didn't hear you. What did you say?"

"I asked you not to wake me tomorrow. I'm going to eat my nine o'clock. I'm not important. What makes you so dreamy?"

Susan closed the mirror and took a good look at Anne. She said, "I'm going to marry him."

She was up at seven the next morning. Her eyes were open in the darkness before the soft rattle of the [illegible]. She couldn't get over the [illegible] it was much too sudden to take in her stride. Like any other girl, it was the kind to make a girl think.

It wasn't until she heard the chimes in the distance, striking the eight o'clock that she realized how long she had been awake. Finally, she dozed off by forcing herself to sleep. After all she had to get up for an eight o'clock class.

It seemed such a short while later that her alarm clock went off with a tackle Susan vaguely turned off the clock and stretched. She took a shower and dressed. Then she looked at her watch. Seven-forty-five. Just time to dash down to the kitchen for orange juice, coffee and a roll, leaving ten minutes to get to class.

Susan ran downstairs lightly as Allie Duncan came in off the porch with the morning paper. Allie unfolded it as she walked into the hall. She looked at the front page and let out a startled cry.

"What's wrong?" Susan inquired. "Prexy's wife have triplets?"

Allie's face was white. "Sue," she gasped. "Phil Humphries—he's dead! He was found dead in the lab early this morning. Look!"

It hit Susan in the face like a club. She snatched the paper quickly. Phil Humphries' picture stared out at her. There was a big, bold headline with it.

CHRISTMAS MAILING PROBLEMS ARISING

Careful Addressing, Especially for Soldier Mail, Urged.

Christmas time, with its enormous, and, this year, unusual mailings, is approaching and hints from L. L. Lamborn, Marion postmaster, an urgent appeal to mail early, pack properly and carefully and completely address the mail.

The men in the armed services are the first consideration, he said, because their morale is vitally affected by the mail they receive.

Letters and parcels improperly addressed or improperly prepared also cause losses and delays and contribute materially to congestions.

Congestions of mail cause loss, damage and delay, the postmaster pointed out. The public can be of great assistance in keeping congestions to the minimum by mailing early, packing properly and carefully and completely addressing the mail, exercising the caution to place on all mail matter the name and address of the sender.

Compulsory Registration Of Women Under Study

President Says Proposal Discussed at Meeting with CIO-AFL Labor Cabinet; National Service Program Not Yet Decided.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—President Roosevelt informed a press conference today that no decision had been reached yet on the issue of national service legislation but he added that the possibility of compulsory registration of women was under consideration.

The Chief Executive said such a registration would not mean that women would be ordered, by compulsion, to go here, there or the other place to work. It would be aimed, he said, at trying to find out where the available supply of women workers exists and something of their fitness for war industry jobs.

Talks With Labor Leaders

This registration idea, Mr. Roosevelt said, was a major topic of discussion when he met yesterday with the CIO-AFL labor war board. The board members talked, he said, of registering women of 18 to 65. Legislation would be required to authorize the canvass of women power.

Probably that would mean, the President said, that the survey could not be made before the end of the year. But, replying to a question, he said he did not think it should be implied that national service legislation necessarily would be delayed also until that time.

He emphasized that there had been no decision whatever on such legislation up to this point, remarking that it still was in the study stage.

On Capitol Hill today, CIO President Philip Murray voiced "flat opposition" to pending congressional proposals for manpower control and urged that the President speedily convene a "conference committee of the nation" to plan the unification of all federal production, procurement and manpower agencies and resources.

Committee Makeup

Such a committee, Murray told a senate labor subcommittee on manpower, should include members of congress and representatives of the government, management, labor and agriculture.

Without recognition of the close relationship between manpower and production, Murray declared "a discussion of a labor freeze or a labor draft is not merely futile nonsense, it is dangerous nonsense."

"If our manpower distribution today is planless and chaotic, a job freeze simply freezes chaos," he said.

Julius Luhrsen, executive secretary of the railway labor executive's association, also opposed compulsory drafting of workers.

Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference he thought a report dealing with national service legislation would reach him soon from the labor-management committee of the war manpower commission.

WILLKIE CERTAIN OF FINAL VICTORY

Says Nazis Can't Beat Reds, or Japs U. S.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—Wendell L. Willkie says that after his world tour he is convinced that Germany can never take Russia and that the Japanese can never take the United States.

The 1940 Republican candidate for the presidency addressed a "March of Time" audience last night over the National Broadcasting company's nationwide network, supplementing his recent report to the nation.

"Before I visited Russia," said Willkie, "it was almost unbelievable to me that any people could stand up under the constant punishment that has been inflicted upon the Russian people by the armies of Germany.

"But I had not been there long before I recognized in them qualities of resource, energy and a love of Russia that convinced me they would never be conquered."

Willkie told how he spent the most of one day on the Russian front and had fired incessant questions at a young lieutenant general, finally inquiring how big a front he was defending.

"I'm not defending anything," Willkie said the general replied. "I am attacking!"

"That is symbolic of the spirit of Russia," Willkie said, "and that is why I am just as sure the Germans will never take Russia as I am that the Japanese will never take the United States, even if they penetrate to a point where Denver becomes our Stalingrad."

He declared that Russian production "is not enough."

"We must aid them with increasing supplies if they are to hold that hard-fought front which is ours as well as theirs," Willkie said.

"I talked with many American flyers in China. They are healthy and fit, but frustrated and impatient because they have so few planes and bombs and such a big opportunity. Their leader, General Claire Chennault, is adored by the Chinese people and he has probably done more for friendship between the two countries than any other single person."

ABANDON CLEVELAND PLANS

By The Associated Press

MOVE TO COMBINE ARMED FORCES GAINS

Solomons Developments Bring Pressure for Action.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 — Against a background of tremendous reports from the Solomons, Capitol Hill attention focused today on propositions to revamp the fighting services, Washington wartime agencies and, moreover, congressional procedure—all aimed at greater military striking power.

Overshadowing all other proposals was that to combine the army, navy and marine corps into a single, coordinated fighting force, wearing one type of uniform and directed by one commander.

Other propositions included:

1. Creation of a congressional "high command" committee to coordinate and expedite wartime legislation.

2. Sweeping reorganization of federal agencies through establishment of an over-all office of war mobilization guided by an "economic general staff."

The three-far reaching propositions generally were aimed at erasing what some of their sponsors termed "jealousy" in the fighting forces, "red tape" in government and "duplication of effort" and slow action in congress.

Court Rules Lepke Must Die in Chair

By The Associated Press

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 30—New York's highest court decreed today Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, one-time New York City industrial racketeer, must die in the electric chair in Sing Sing prison for a 1936 slaying he is accused of ordering.

The 45-year-old Lepke, now serving a 44-year-to-life federal sentence for various crimes, was convicted last December with two henchmen, Emanuel (Mendy) Weiss and Louis Capone, of the murder of Joseph Rosen, Brooklyn candy store owner. The state charged Lepke ordered Rosen's death when he feared the storekeeper would turn informant for Thomas E. Dewey, then Manhattan prosecutor investigating the trucking racket.

Kings County District Attorney William O'Dwyer, at the time of Lepke's conviction, said President Roosevelt would have to pardon Lepke from his federal sentences, including a 14-year term at Atlanta, Ga., on a narcotics charge, before New York can take custody.

Brief talks to workers were given by Harold J. Grigsby, F. E. Guthery, Arthur Smith, county farm agent, Mr. Oliphant and Mr. White.

Mr. Oliphant announced that quota-breaking emblems would be awarded to any concern whose workers had given the equivalent of one month's pay for 10 months to the war chest drive. He said in some cases there were discrepancies between the assigned quotas and the totals that this basis of giving would produce, and that the revised basis for awarding quota pennants had been decided on yesterday.

Asks Rural Workers To Complete Job

A special appeal to United War Chest campaign workers in the rural area of Marion county and in the villages to complete their work by Monday and turn in reports by 6 o'clock Monday night was made today by J. E. Oliphant, president of the Marion Community Foundation, through which the war chest drive is being conducted.

"Since every effort is being made to put the drive 'over the top' by Monday night and to conserve workers' time by getting the job done as quickly as possible, we hope rural residents will make it a point to finish their part of the job this week-end," Mr. Oliphant said.

League of Nations Founder Looks To New World Order

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

LONDON, Oct. 30—Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, chief draftsman of the covenant of the now sick League of Nations, believes that the erection of a new international authority—a real barrier against war—must be the immediate concern of the allies as soon as this conflict is ended.

"My friends of the left want great economic and social reforms," he told me during a conversation in his London home. "They hold that there will be no more war if there is enough reform under way.

"However, this seems to me to be putting the cart before the horse. They cannot convince large numbers of nations to launch out on great reforms forthwith, for reforms must depend on peace.

"We must make the people feel that further war will be prevented. Then the prestige acquired will help get social forms carried through.

"This is the great thing nations must consider. We must have supremacy over war in order to get reforms. Unless you can create a secure base for your reforms they will be swept aside in the next convulsion."

Cecil believes that what is left of the League of Nations provides a fine nucleus for a new international organization.

Now he is anxious to help create an organization which shall lack the faults of the last.

"When you get real peace you some day will have Germany, Italy and Japan back in the league. But they can't be entrusted with arms for a long time to come.

"The older Germans are averse to war but the younger are Hitlerites. We must maintain control in Germany until the new generation can be educated. So far as Italy is concerned, there seems to be a general rejection of fascism.

"The war guilty must be tried, but they must have guarantees of fair treatment. For Hitler and other leaders there must be an international tribunal. They must in some way be removed from society."

There was a pause, then:

"Perhaps the Germans themselves will shoot Hitler and the French will guillotine Laval."

FORMER OHIOAN PRAISED IN EGYPT

Bravery of Ambulance Driver Saves Wounded Men.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, Oct. 30—The bravery of John Dun, 50, of Tucson, Ariz., a former editor of the Toledo (O.) Times, was the talk of the western desert today.

Dun, an American field service ambulance driver, saved ten wounded men under intense enemy fire and alone brought three ambulances to safety on the night of Oct. 23-24—the night the allied offensive began.

The commanding officer praised Dun for "bravery, unselfish service and devotion to duty."

The three ambulances were mired in the soft sand of the Qattara depression within sight of the enemy lines. Armored vehicles had tried to haul them out but could get no traction.

The enemy laid down an intense fire. Explosive bullets tore a gaping hole in the door beside Dun and machine gun fire riddled the vehicles.

Dun jumped out to carry three patients to safety. As he lifted the first one, an explosive bullet hit the injured man in the stomach and killed him.

Dun got the others to a sandbag shelter and lay there three hours with an Italian prisoner who crawled to the shelter and acted as Dun's orderly.

Finally, tanks arrived and towed the ambulances out one by one with Dun steering each one and getting his patients to the hospital.

Kaiser Says Industry Must Show Progress

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 30 — Henry J. Kaiser, the west coast mass production shipbuilder, told hundreds of industrialists last night that people cannot sit on the lid of progress and that, "if they do they will be blown to pieces."

Declaring that "the defensive idea" must be dropped from production, he told a conference of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts that he had found from his own experiences that:

"The old shipyards have not exactly agreed with the new shipyards; the old cement industry did its utmost to keep out the new; the old steel industry has resisted innovation and expansion; the airplane industry has not exactly welcomed the suggestion that things might be bigger and better—all of this is understandable."

Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan, told the meeting that any belief that "her successive adventures have weakened Japan's actual or potential strength" were wishful thinking.

Reporter Describes Tornado Scene

The following description of Berryville's tornado was provided by Miss Clyde Greenhaw, city editor of the Harrison Times, who accompanied the first outside ambulance crew into the community after the storm.

• • •

By MISS CLYDE GREENHAW

BERRYVILLE, Ark., Oct. 30—When I arrived here with the doctors from Harrison last night everything was pitch black except for a few flashlights and lanterns.

The town was strewn with debris and wreckage and you couldn't tell where the streets stopped or started. The entire west side of town was just a level area of twisted timber.

Rescue workers were pulling people out from under the timber. All those that weren't hurt were helping and didn't have time to talk.

The bodies that I saw were all mangled some of them pretty badly. It seemed like everybody that was hurt had cuts or lumps on their heads. Some of those that hadn't been hurt very badly were walking around, soaking wet, in a daze but trying to help anyhow.

E. G. Guise, 31, vocational agriculture teacher in the high school which was destroyed, told me he heard the storm coming, pulled a mattress over his body and that the next thing he knew he was lying up against a fence.

There was a crowd at the depot, waiting for a train which was four hours late. It blew down on them. There was a young woman in the bunch who was badly injured. She kept crying for her baby but it hadn't been found three hours later.

The three Berryville doctors were so busy they didn't know who they were working on. They just did what they could and went on to the next one.

Marion Girl Hit by Rock After Bucyrus Game

Struck on the head by a stone wrapped in newspaper and hurled by an unknown person at the close of the Harding-Bucyrus football game Thursday night, Miss Margaret Gray of 919 North Main street, suffered an injury described by a Bucyrus physician as a slight concussion. Miss Gray was leaving the stands with Marion friends when injured.

She was knocked unconscious for a few minutes. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Gray, who had been sitting on the Bucyrus side of the stands, saw her as she was being helped from the stands by Supt. E. E. Holt. Miss Gray and a group of friends had been sitting on the Harding side.

Her parents took her to a Bucyrus physician who made an examination. He told them she should have 24 hours of complete rest and that the injury was not serious.

Miss Gray, who is employed as a bookkeeper at the Marion County bank, was resting today and was showing no ill effects, her father said.

RUSSIANS MASSING FOR WINTER DRIVE

Nazi Sources Say Huge Force Assembled in North.

By The Associated Press

BERN, Switzerland, Oct. 30—German news agency reports reaching here today from Berlin said the Russians are massing "powerful shock armies" for a winter attempt to break through the Germans' Vitebsk-Smolensk line some 275 miles west of Moscow.

These reports said signs are increasing daily that the Russians, despite the continuing heavy German pressure on the Stalingrad and Caucasus fronts, are assembling troops with full aviation and armored support in the Rzhev-Toropets region.

The Russian plan, it was said, apparently was to send one of these armies westward from Rzhev toward Velikie Luki with strong armored and motorized support and then make a southward encircling sweep in an effort to reach the Dvina river near Vitebsk.

At the same time, the reports said, another shock group would set out from Rzhev southward to Vyazma, then wheel toward Smolensk in an attempt to form a junction with the northern wing.

Heavy Russian air forces were said to be massing in the Rzhev-Toropets region and better weather was reported to have improved roads sufficiently for heavy material movement.

LIARS CLUB STRIKES MEDAL FOR GOBBELS

Nazi Mouthpiece Wins First in Professional Class.

BURLINGTON, Wis., Oct. 30—War tales issuing from Axis propaganda ministries have prompted the Burlington Liars' club to establish a department for professionals and in unusual ceremonies yesterday the first award went to Nazi Germany's Paul Joseph Goebbels.

In the absence of Goebbels the club made the presentation to an ole talking machine.

"It is a perfect likeness," said O. C. Hulett, club president. "Like Goebbels, a phonograph is just a mouthpiece for someone else. It speaks only at the will of its owner, and then speaks only what its master wants it to."

The award, the "medal of the order of the double cross" was a pewter plate presented with two Xs.

Goebbels won it with this choice moved broadcast from Berlin on Sept. 7:

"Flash from Washington, D. C., from confidential sources it is learned that prisoners serving long terms and life sentences for manslaughter, bank robbery and other crimes, are taking full advantage of the opportunity of obtaining their release from prison by joining the Communist party."

"Professionals receiving the special award will not be granted club membership" Hulett said, "because we feel our members would resign in a body under such circumstances. They are justly proud of their amateur status."

A process has been developed for spraying airplane motors with rare molten aluminum to protect them from rust.

Douse 'em with plenty of Brooks Catsup . . . they'll have a delicious tangy flavor that will remind you of an ole fashioned weiner roast in the woods.

Harding Easily Defeats Bucyrus Redmen, 26-0; Irish To Play Tonig

Harold Jenkins Stars As Presidents Score N. C. O. League Win.

By LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

MARION HARDING'S football Presidents, rebounding from their first loss in two years, moved within two games of a fourth straight North Central Ohio league title last night at Bucyrus, downing a highly underrated Bucyrus Redmen eleven by 26-0.

Held scoreless in the opening period, the Hardings gave vent to 13 points in the second period. Thirteen more Prexy points were registered in the fourth quarter following a scoreless third stanza.

Playing perhaps the greatest game of his career, Harold Jenkins, the Hardman's ace speed merchant, crossed the Bucyrus goal three times to rank for in front of ball carriers of both teams. The 18-point plunge total Jenkins' sea on total to 48 points, or more than half of Harding's total 86 points in six games.

Williams Star

Almost as brilliant as Capt. Keith Williams, whose defensive play marked him as the outstanding lineman, Don Benedict, playing at right end opposite Williams, and Don Kay at left tackle also were bulwarks on defense. Williams and Benedict consistently were in the Bucyrus backfield and threw Bucyrus backs for several long losses.

For Bucyrus, Halfback John Landis, a junior, was outstanding. He handled all the passing, did some of the kicking and carried the ball several times for short gains.

Both coaches substituted freely, Harding's Coach Dorris using three full teams and Nick Wasylik, the Bucyrus mentor, playing 25 boys. For the first time this season, Coach Dorris alternated backfield men on offense and defense. Stu Young, who has been in the Harding starting line-up in nearly every game this season, played right half on defense and Fritz Ruhl was hustled in whenever Harding was in possession of the ball.

Ruhl, a 155-pound sparkplug back, has seen little action this season as a result of an old leg injury. On numerous occasions he slashed through the stubborn Bucyrus line or around Redmen flankers for long gains.

A bad kick by Teyner which struck a defensive player in the back and bounded to the Bucyrus 31 was recovered by Harding's Stu Young near the end of the first quarter. In two plays the Hardings were shoved back to the 35 before the quarter ended. On the first play of the second quarter Quarterback Calvin Scott passed to Harold Jenkins on the Bucyrus two-yard line and the Harding speedster stepped across for the touchdown. Fullback Leo Roy Harvey's placement was good.

Prexies Score Again

Tom Hurst kicked off to Landis, who streaked back 13 yards to the Bucyrus 27. Three plays aimed at the Harding line netted one yard gain and on fourth down Driscoll was moved back from center to punt. His kick was partially blocked by a Harding lineman and recovered on the Bucyrus 24 by the whole Harding line.

Scott gained three yards through center. Ruhl made eight and first down on the Bucyrians' 14. Scott smashed off tackle for five more and Ruhl again made it first down all the way to the Bucyrus 4. Scott plunged for another yard and Jenkins raced around right end, evaded a host of Bucyrus tacklers and scooted the remaining three yards for the second Prexy touchdown. Harvey's kick for the extra point was wide.

Neither team threatened seriously in the remaining six minutes of the second period.

Third quarter action was confined almost entirely to between the 30 yard lines. On one occasion each the two teams forged beyond these points, but each time the attacks were halted outside the 20-yard markers.

Following two punt exchanges at the beginning of the final quarter, the Hardings air-tight defense really closed in, forcing the Redmen to take to the air in a frenzied final and futile effort to score. Harold Jenkins raced in from his safety position to nab one of these passes and outrun the Bucyrus secondary for the third Harding six pointer. The run, highlight of the entire game, was one of the greatest runs by a Harding back this year. Jenkins nabbed the pass on the Bucyrus 42, ran along the sidelines and cut back into the center around the Bucyrus 10. At least five Bucyrus defensemen made diving attempts to stop Jenkins but a final burst of speed carried him over for the score. Ruhl's try for the kick was no good.

Ruhl Scores

Three minutes later and again Harding was knocking at the Bucyrus door. A bad pass from center went between two Bucyrus backs, Harding Capt. Williams, rushing in on the play, dove past the Bucyrus backs to make the recovery on the Redmen 17. Jenkins made a first down to the Bucyrus 6. Scott picked up three more off right tackle and Ruhl burst off left tackle for the score. Tom Hurst' placement was perfect.

The Presidents and the Whippets of Shelby clash at Harding stadium next Friday night in an N. C. O. fray, the Harding's next to last game of the 1942 season. Tomorrow Mt. Vernon and Shelby battle in another N. C. O. duel.

Ashland Defeats Galion, 21-6

GALION, Oct. 30—Galion High school Orangemen dropped an N. C. O. league game here last night to the Ashland Hilltoppers. The score was 21 to 6.

Puglisi, 230-lb Ashland star, highlighted the game with his runs, running 10 to 15 yards every time he carried the ball. He scored two of Ashland's three touchdowns, one in the second quarter after a 18-yard drive and again in the third quarter. Ashland's third touchdown was made by Yeater near the end of the fourth quarter after an 80-yard drive. Leo Strang, Ashland back, made three placements for his team.

A feature of the early part of the game came when Bob Dove, Ashland back, made a 100-yard punt, standing behind his own goal line and punting down to the Galion goal line.

Although the Galion team played a smart game, the Ashland players were bigger and heavier and out-played the locals.

Salvador Medrano made Galion's touchdown in the first quarter. Emory Shafer played an outstanding game for the Galion team.

Mayo Says You Can't Cure Slice That Way

NEW YORK—Reaching for a golf ball is teaching for trouble, according to Charles H. Mayo, Lido Country club professional. He says the duffer's antidote for a slice is all wrong.

Mayo claims that standing as far as possible from the ball only draws the club head inside the line of flight sooner and thus produces a slice.

"The newness of a change in stance often will lead to a few good shots," Mayo says, "but that won't stand the test of time."

Mayo's cure for a slice?

"Practice hitting through on a straight line at a moderate distance from the ball, even though you push the first 50 shots into the rough."

Before delivering them to purchasers, a New York factory subjects gyroscopic aviation instruments to rougher treatment than they would get in actual service.

OHIO'S ONLY TWO UNBEATEN SQUADS TO RISK RECORDS

Ohio State and Wilberforce Tangle with Top-Flight Foes Tomorrow.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 30 — Ohio's only unbeaten college grid teams—Wilberforce and the Bucks of Ohio State—tangle with top-flight foes this weekend in the headline attractions of an 18-game program involving Buckeye squads.

Navy and Notre Dame stage their annual fracas at Cleveland's Municipal stadium Saturday afternoon, adding a bit of spice to the Ohio menu, with the South Bend Irish definitely favored to grab the laurels.

Ohio State, the nation's No. 1 team and leader of the Western conference, had no sure edge over the Badgers of Wisconsin, whom the Bucks battle at Madison, Wis. No one looked for a repetition of last season's 46-34 free-for-all grabbed by the Bucks, each club having displayed a much tighter defense this fall.

Wilberforce vs Lincoln

Wilberforce, winner of four straight — all against out-of-state opposition — tangles with Lincoln university of Missouri in the annual homecoming contest over in Greene county, and the invaders are not considered underdogs to the Ohioans.

The outstanding game in the Ohio conference sends Otterbein's league leaders against Denison's Big Red at Westerville. The others have won three straight, while Denison has been tied once in three starts.

John Carroll, undefeated in the conference, dropped its second game in five starts last night, a 21-0 affray with Western Reserve university.

Ohio Northern's Polar Bears also can get into the first place deadlock by trimming Muskingum at New Concord, if Denison beats Otterbein. Bowling Green, beaten but once in five starts, makes its first conference start by entertaining Kent State.

Other Conference Games

Other conference games, all between defeated squads, send Wooster to Mount Union, Heidelberg to Capital and Kenyon to Oberlin.

Only one tilt is on tonight, Illinois Wesleyan playing at Youngstown, but Saturday's schedule is complete. Here are the other contests.

Boston university at Cincinnati, Baldwin Wallace at Akron, Wright-Patterson Field vs West Liberty Teachers at Wheeling, W. Va., Ohio U. at Miami, Marshall at Dayton, Bluffton at Grand Rapids, U. S. Coast Guard (Manhattan Beach, N. Y.) at Toledo (night); Miami Naval Radios vs Findlay at Hamilton (night) and Ohio Wesleyan at Case (night).

Weather Hampers Duck Hunting in Eastern U. S.

By International News Service

BOSTON — Duck hunters in New England are complaining that this is the worst season in 10 years due to the unusually mild weather this fall. Ducks are staying up north. The hunters fear that when the cold weather comes it will come so suddenly that all water fowl will go south at once, thus giving hunters little shooting. This may be a good thing for the game, which is increasing in numbers in recent years due to the splendid work of Ducks Unlimited.

St. Mary To Play Lima St. Rose at Stadium, in Last Home Game.

MAKING their final 1942 appearance in Marion, Marion St. Mary gridders entertain the powerful Lima St. Rose eleven tonight at 8:30 under the lights of Harding stadium.

Winners of only two games in five starts this season, the local Irish will be out to even its season average. St. Rose will be seeking revenge for last years 20-18 defeat at the hands of a strong 1941 St. Mary team.

St. Mary's starting backfield will be bolstered by the return of Fullback Bob Murphy to St. Mary's after his ankle. Murphy, the Saints No. 1 point-maker, missed last week's Mansfield Madison game won by the Mansfielders 13-0.

Bob Winterstellen, freshman end who missed a couple of mid-season St. Mary games because of a charley horse, will take in the St. Mary line-up last Friday against Madison. While he was not unusually effective last week, Coach Eugene Fetter predicted today that Winterstellen would be in top form tonight.

Only eleven men dressed in the St. Mary starting line-up moved Irving Jan at center in place of Dan Kelly.

St. Rose comes here boasting only one win in three starts, losing to Toledo Central Catholic Reserves by 26-0 and Portsmouth Central Catholic by 19-6. Last week the St. Rose team won over Pandora by 27-26 with Quarterback Jimmy Secrest scoring 26 of his team's 27 points.

Tonight's game was originally scheduled to be played last night, but St. Mary officials moved the game up to tonight to give followers of Marion Harding an opportunity to see the local Irish in action also.

STATE MAY PROVIDE MORE FISHING HOLES

Plans Hundreds of Privately Owned Lakes in Ohio.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 30—Ohio's anglers may get a chance to fish in their own back yards—almost.

The state conservation and natural resources division plans to aid tire and gasoline-rationed anglers of Izaak Walton by opening hundreds of privately-owned lakes and ponds throughout the state.

The division will negotiate with 700 owners in an effort to increase to 1,200 the number of such fishing places open to anglers, said Conservation Commissioner Don Waters.

Under a new type agreement to be used after Nov. 15 landowners would open lakes for three years to free, controlled public fishing and provide a lane for fishermen to enter and leave.

Like owners could charge for boat, tackle and bait.

Notre Dame Relies on New Star To Help Beat Navy

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 30—Returning to Notre Dame coaching after a 17-day treatment in the Mayo clinic, Frank Leahy learns that the boy he left behind in the bad had blossomed into a star.

The fellow has become such a star, that the Irish, running through light workouts in preparation for their sixteenth meeting with navy, swing along with a new battle cry—let's battle with Russell.

Russell Gilman Asnaugh Jr., about as tall as a fireplug, was picked into the Iowa Seahawks' game two weeks ago after injuries had a pack cay two halfbacks who shot before him. The fireplug began gushing—he passed, he caught passes he ran. The result was a 28 to 0 Notre Dame victory.

Last week against Illinois, Ashbaugh's 40-yard punt return set up the tying touchdown, and his interception of a pass in the fading minutes ended a strong Illini threat.

Russell's father was on Walter Camp's second All-America team at Brown in 1911 and later was a coach at a Youngstown, O., High school. His mother was a basketball captain of a women's team at Pittsburgh.

Russell's ambition is to score a touchdown.

Advance ticket sales have passed the 70,000 mark and some predictions are that the contest will draw 80,000 persons.

Rated the favorite, the Irish will have an average, 10-pound weight over the Middies between tackles and an eight-pound average from end to end.

Conditioning, Teamwork Are Benefits of Football

By International News Service

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—In his football lectures to his 1942 squad, Coach Frank Leahy of Notre Dame recently pointed out the chief benefits of the gridiron sport.

"Two are outstanding," Leahy said. "These are conditioning and teamwork. Both are necessary if we are to triumph over the Axis powers."

The Irish coach in his second year at Notre Dame, pointed out that many of the Fighting Irish have enlisted in the reserve branches of the armed forces or are occupied in special courses designed to fit them for service.

Arguments on Why You Should or Should Not Vote for Sewer Rental

A proposed sewer rental law will be placed before Marion city voters for their decision on Tuesday's election.

City officials who drafted the ordinance creating the fee system are defending it as a necessary part of sound municipal financing. A group of persons for whom Walter D. Moore, attorney, has served as spokesman is opposing the plan and has taken the steps to bring the proposal to a referendum vote Tuesday.

If you vote "yes" Tuesday you have cast a vote in favor of establishing the sewer fee system. If you vote "no," you have voted to reject the fee plan.

To acquaint Marion residents with the principal arguments both for and against the proposal, The Star herewith is giving a summary of the viewpoints of both the city administration and the group opposing the sewer fees. Mayor Snare and other city officials have contributed to the material favoring the proposal. Mr. Moore as spokesman for opponents of the plan has presented the arguments opposing it.

For the Sewer Levy

Principal arguments in favor of the sewer rental fee ordinance passed by city council may be summarized briefly as follows:

Marion has a $520,000 sewage treatment plant and a valuable sewer system which, through lack of any definite financial program to provide for their maintenance and proper operation, have been sadly neglected for more than a decade.

A sewer rental fee program would remedy this, raising some $32,000 to $40,000 annually. This would provide funds for a five-year corrective program estimated to cost $60,000 or more, to bring the sewage treatment works "up to date" or to overcome the damage that has been caused by neglect in past years. Furthermore it would provide some revenue for corrective work in the city sewer system and raise enough money to pay for the operation of the sewage treatment works, an item of about $13,000 a year.

Ninety-eight other Ohio cities have adopted sewer rental fee systems in past years and the list includes Bucyrus, Carey, Delaware, Mansfield, Marysville and Richwood. The fees range from 72 cents to $18 a year but for the most part are in the $4 to $7 range. Marion's proposed charge per family is $4 a year.

As between a sewer rental fee and a bond issue, city officials contend the rental fee is fairer. They say records show about 73 per cent of the city's population uses the sewer system and the sewage treatment works, and that the proposed fees would place the cost of these municipal services directly on the persons who are benefitted by them.

Officials declare the proposal is part of a broad municipal financial planning program. They explain that neglect of the sewer treatment plant in past years was part of an enforced "program of neglect" that affected police and fire departments, parks and virtually all city departments while Marion was working its way out of a burdensome debt problem climaxed in the late 1920's when the city owed more than $1,000,000. That figure has been cut to less than half of that amount, but still the bond requirements are heavy.

In answer to critics who point to parking meter revenue and other increases in municipal revenue for operating purposes in recent years, officials cite several reasons why the sewer rental fee money is nevertheless needed. One is the fact that six firemen and four policemen have been added in recent months—made necessary to meet very genuine protection problems in Marion. The city was obliged to get new trucks—and new additional men to run them—to keep fire insurance rates from soaring. Fire department personnel was down to the place where one department was closed down for a day at a time during summer months. Police throughout the state shifted over to eight-hour tricks in the place of 12-hour shifts this year, and as a result more men were needed.

The sewer rental fee proposed enters into this picture to the extent of about $13,000. That is the amount it costs to operate the sewage treatment plant for a year (exclusive of repairs or improvements). If this amount is taken out of general tax money, it means there is $13,000 less for fire, police and other departments. The sewer rental fee would provide this money plus other revenue for repairs and improvements, and release about $13,000 a year for other municipal operations.

One of the big points in the opinion of city officials is the fact this is a five-year program. The sewer rental fee would expire automatically in five years.

Use of the funds is strictly limited to "payment of the costs and expense of the management, maintenance, operation and repair of the sewage system and sewage treatment works."

Against It

Opponents of the sewer rental fee proposal emphasize one point in all of their discussions—they are not against improvements at the sewage treatment works but they don't like the method the city proposes to use to finance the work.

The chief fault they find with the proposal is that it provides substantially more money than is needed to put the sewage treatment works in good operating condition.

Mr. Moore, attorney and spokesman for a group of Marion residents fighting the sewer rental fee plan, declares that estimates as to the amount of money needed for repairs at the plant varied from $25,000 to $50,000. The sewer fee ordinance, if it goes into effect, would last five years and raise about $200,000 to do a $50,000 or $40,000 job, Mr. Moore contends.

In support of the argument that the city is getting enough more revenue now to enable the administration to take care of the sewer plant operations without a sewer rental fee, Mr. Moore cites these developments.

(1) Parking meters are bringing in about $23,000 a year of additional income now.

(2) The municipal court is paying from $2,500 to $3,000 a month into the treasury which is about four times as much revenue as it was paying two years ago.

(3) The bonded debt of the city has been reduced greatly so that less interest on debt is needed each year.

(4) There will be a reappraisal of real estate in the county for tax purposes and undoubtedly the trend of values will be upward. Thus, council will receive additional thousands of dollars.

Opponents of the rental fee declare it is discriminatory—that the rates are not assessed equitably and are excessive.

They point out that while correction of an East Side sewer condition was one of the original projects in the sewer program two years ago when a similar rental fee was proposed, federal funds have been used to correct that condition and yet the same amount of money from the rental fee is sought this year.

It is argued that council never has answered repeated questions as to what it proposes to do with the sewer rental fee money in excess of the amount actually needed to repair the sewage treatment works.

"Another objection to the sewer tax ordinance," Mr. Moore continued, "is that though it is technically limited to a period of five years, we know that once it becomes a part of the legislation of the city it will always remain there." He pointed out also that the original rates proposed in the ordinance could be increased by council at any time.

Collection of the rental fee would cost about six per cent of the yield of income from that source whereas a bond issue to accomplish the same work could produce money at a cost of around two and one-half per cent.

Regarding city officials' argument that only persons with sewer connections should pay for operation of the sewage system, Mr. Moore points out that any home in Marion, regardless of whether it is connected to a sewer, is more valuable because the city has a sewer system.

Another argument advanced by Mr. Moore is that the revenue-raising measure "comes at an inopportune time" when taxes are being piled on taxes and real estate is limited in the income that it yields; it is uncertain whether landlords could pass the rental fee on to their rents in view of rent ceiling regulations.

City School Board Seeking Special Levy, Explains Present Use of Funds

Analysis Shows 80 Cents of Each Dollar Goes for Personal Service; Fixed Charges Consume 20 Per Cent.

[illegible] is one of a series of [illegible] the Schools [illegible] an opportunity to [illegible] the need for the [illegible] levy for school operating [illegible] which Marion residents [illegible] next Tuesday. [illegible] explained by the [illegible] school officials.

How is the Marion school dollar spent? This question is asked frequently. Especially is it asked when an additional tax is sought.

In answering this question, the figures used are taken from a report published by the Bureau of Research of Ohio State university issued in January, 1942.

Following is the list of main items in current school expenditures in the Marion City schools for the year ending June 30, 1941, the latest date to which the Bureau of Research has issued figures:

General Control	$ .032
Instruction	.736
Plant Operation	.123
Plant Maintenance	.04
Auxiliary Agencies	.014
Fixed Charges	.051
Total	$1.00

Of the Marion school dollar 80 cents is used to pay people for services rendered and the other 20 cents is used to pay for materials purchased, utilities and fixed charges.

The money from the proposed two mill levy is needed to meet the expenses of the schools in 1943. The 20 cents spent for fixed charges, utilities and materials purchased cannot be materially reduced. The only possible place to reduce expenditures to the extent necessary to live within the present income would be in the amount paid for services.

In a time of rising living costs, it is impossible to cut wages of people who are already paid on a low scale.

How Marion school costs compare with those in cities of similar size in Ohio will be outlined in the next article in this series.

MISCONDUCT CHARGED

John Starts, 52, of 230 Blaine avenue, arrested by city police on a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct at 12:38 a. m. today by city police, was released on $22 bond to appear in municipal court later.

MAJOR GRAINS GAIN, THEN SLIP BACK

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 30—Prices of major grains advanced about a cent a bushel at one time today but much of the grain was lost before the market closed.

Buying was stimulated by upward revision of parity prices, which some dealers thought might be reflected in loan rates for corn and ceilings in processed commodities. Washington reports that farm bloc representatives in congress will seek to change some aspects of the present government program stabilizing prices, especially affecting commodities which are below parity, also attracted attention.

Chilean Police Disperse Anti-Axis Parade

By The Associated Press

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 30—Demonstrators divided upon Chile's maintenance of relations with the axis powers clashed in Santiago streets last night.

Pro-Democratic Chileans who called for a break with Rome, Berlin and Tokyo—most of them members of student federation youth movements—were dispersed by police when they attempted to break up a torchlight parade of students, professors and alleged axis sympathizers appealing a change in Chilean foreign policy.

Subsequently, altercations at a theater exhibiting German films resulted in the injuring of five persons.

MARKET TRIES MINOR RALLY

Air Transport Stock Works Up Some Enthusiasm for Price Recovery.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—Specialties, led by air transports, worked up a little recovery temperature in today's stock market while many leaders suffered from mild selling chills.

Lack of definite news from the battle of the Solomons again proved a handicap for bullish forces. Near the fourth hour, prices were a trifle spotty.

Bonds improved selectively. Commodities did better, with cotton up on the boost in parity rates for this staple.

Among stocks gains of a point or so were registered for Eastern, United and American Airlines. Laggards included Chrysler, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft, U. S. Rubber, Westinghouse and Public Service of N. J.

Chrysler Steel, on the big board, made a new top for the year as the earnings picture for his producer brightened. Reports that all-cargo commercial air service on a nation-wide scale would get under way soon revived interest in aerial transport securities.

AFRICA

tary and civilian experts moved in to establish important bases after the British had broken Italian resistance.

Large Italian machine shops have been converted to the manufacture of motor parts, a rubber mixing and retreading mill has been improved and now is turning out about 100 tires a week, depots have been installed for complete overhaul of aircraft engines and dockyards capable of handling cruisers have been constructed.

Such activities are being duplicated in a dozen places as the United States clears the road over which materials are pouring into the battle fronts.

U. S. Troops Reported Established in Liberia

By The Associated Press

It was disclosed today that American troops had been established in Liberia on the west coast of Africa.

Raising the possibility of an allied "squeeze" against axis forces in North Africa, U. S. army troops were said to have been gathering in Liberia since July and to have built two airports.

Liberia, constituted as a republic in 1847 and modelled after the United States, lies on the great bulge of the African continent, between the British colony of Sierra Leone and the French Ivory coast colony. Its capital, Monrovia, is less than 800 miles airline from Vichy France's key naval base at Dakar.

The size of the American contingent was not revealed but was said to include crack Negro troops.

Darlan Returns

Coincidentally, Admiral Jean Darlan, chief of Vichy's armed forces, returned to Vichy from an inspection of Dakar's defenses and a high French government official intimated that France stood ready not only to defend her colonies but to "counter-attack."

"To the egotism of England, France must respond by egotism just as complete," said Paul Marion, French secretary of state for information.

"She must above all defend her empire and even aim at a triumphant counterattack."

Germany has long exerted pressure on the Vichy regime to declare war on Britain, obviously hoping to gain the assistance of the once powerful French fleet.

On the Egyptian battlefront, Italian headquarters reported that axis forces yesterday repulsed a fresh British attempt to land seaborne troops behind the lines and beat off repeated attacks by strong allied armored units.

The Fascist war bulletin said the British twice attempted to set troops ashore in the vicinity of Matruh, 100 miles west of the actual fighting front, only to be driven off with heavy losses.

The Italian command admitted that British imperials attacking on the Alamein line, 80 miles west of Alexandria succeded in making "initial penetrations," but asserted that they were promptly halted.

Dewey Adds Slightly To Lead in New York Race

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 30—Entering home stretch in the New York governorship race, Thomas E. Dewey shows a slightly increased lead in the latest Institute poll of New York state.

With five days to go before the election, this survey of voting intentions shows the three leading candidates running as follows:

Dewey (R)	51%
Bennett (D)	39
Alfange (Am. Labor)	4

These results indicate that the campaign put on by the three candidates has actually caused sentiment to change to a relatively small degree in the past few weeks.

The first survey which the Institute conducted on the three-man race, a survey reported Sept. 13, showed the candidates running virtually the same as they are today.

Subsequent surveys show of a slight drop at one period in the Dewey vote and in the vote for Dean Alfange, candidate of the American Labor Party, with a corresponding gain for John J. Bennett. But at no time thus far has there been any major shift of sentiment.

The trend as shown in Institute surveys throughout the campaign is given below:

	Dewey	Bennett	Alfange
Sept. 13	44%	36%	10%
Sept. 27	53	37	10
Oct. 16	51	41	8
Oct. 23	51	41	8
Oct. 28	52	40	8
Today	53	39	8

It is entirely possible, of course, that a shift in sentiment may take place over the week-end. To measure any last minute developments, the Institute is continuing its survey, and will make a final report on Monday.

Indiana Situation

Meanwhile, political observers will be watching with keen interest the vote this year in another important state—Indiana, which is the home of Wendell Willkie and of Paul V. McNutt.

Evidence is at hand to indicate that one of the major surprises in this year's political situation may come in that state.

Reports from interviewers for the Institute in Indiana indicate that the total Democratic vote for congressmen will show a decided increase this year as compared to the 1940 election.

In 1940 the Democrats polled 49 per cent of the two-party total in congressional races throughout Indiana.

This time the Democrats will, according to Institute estimates, poll about 54 per cent—an increase of five points since 1940.

GENERAL GETS MEDAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—The war department today announced award of the distinguished flying cross to Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commanding general of United States air forces in the Middle East, for extraordinary achievement in leading an attack on Andaman Island in the Bay of Bengal last April.

Private flying in Argentina will be encouraged by the government through a new semi-official organization composed of civil flying clubs and similar aviation groups.

Fuller's Earth

FOR LONG years the weaver used fuller's earth. Fulling consist in soaking the cloth in water and then pounding fuller's earth into it and treading, beating and pounding on it so as to shrink and give it a closer and more even weave. Then the fuller's earth was washed out, and because of its property of absorption it took with it also, it was removed, the grease and dirt and left the cloth soft and clean.

Absorption, in the normal physical chemists give to the process whereby a substance becomes part of another substance and remains in a state midway between mechanical mixture and chemical combination.

The mediaeval weaver knew all this empirically without using the word absorption or making any experiments to find out why fuller's earth was so valuable to him. Nor did anyone in the long age during which fuller's earth could be used for other purposes—in treating any of the ills of man kind.

In the 16th century, Chinese porcelain was introduced into Europe and its delicacy and lightness was greatly admired. The artisans of the western world tried long to find out what material was used to fashion these beautiful objects.

In the early 18th century a pharmacist—note, a pharmacist—Boettger, found that it was an earth called kaolin by the Chinese. And this closely guarded secret ingredient of porcelain was practically the same as the humble fuller's earth the weavers had been using for centuries.

Almost at the same time it was found that the Chinese used kaolin as a remedy for cholera, dysentery and stomach complaint. Finally in 1910 it received the dignity of scientific recognition when McRobert used it in the epidemic of Asiatic cholera in the Balkans.

Why should it not be a good remedy in such cases? It is an aluminum silicate which is adsorptive. Taken into an intestine full of toxic materials and bacteria, it absorbs all these, holds them in suspension so that they cannot get into the blood stream and poison the body, just as it absorbed the dirt and grease from the weaver's wool.

So today it is successfully used in all sorts of cases of gastro-enteritis.

What a long road to take to find so logical and simple a remedy! And with how many people, humble and distinguished, contributing to it! I suggest it as an illustration that the action of drugs is not a magical or haphazard science, but one of entire logic.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELL GARRISON

MY FATHER hung up the telephone as I comparently spoke to Dicky.

"Well, the stage is set," he said. "Now for the leading actress."

Dr. Twitchell was the first to arrive, and my father explained matter to the confident of comrade of many exciting adventures, while the physician was making a swift examination of Noel and Mary, still unconscious.

"They're in no danger whatever," he said. "They've had a powerful dose, and if one of them had a heart trouble it might not be good. But Milner could inform himself of that beforehand. He made a action to take a chance like that."

"The other room holds the coffee grounds," he asked. "I suppose, to make good the drama, I ought to compound it even though you say I shall find nothing in it."

Putting on an Act

"That is exactly what I want you to do," my father said. Then, at a hurried knock sounded on the sitting room door, he murmured: "Richard, go to Noel. Margaret, if you'll do a bit of hysterical questioning of Dr. Twitchell, as soon as you hear the door open, I shall be infinitely obliged. Doctor, if you can make out that this is worse than it really is, I shall be glad. You might stress the heart angle."

Then he went into the sitting room, where Dicky had preceded him and where I could see him bending over Noel. And just before my father opened the outside door I let my voice rise in a piercing wail.

"Oh, Dr. Twitchell tell me she isn't going to die! She looks so like death I can't bear it. I tell you, I can't bear it."

And from the room behind me I could hear my father's voice in judicial accusation.

"Come in Mr. Milner, and shut the door. Something terrible has happened here, something which I think you, as manager, ought to explain."

"I don't understand," Milner stammered. He patently was a capable actor. "What has happened? Tell me."

"Don't excite yourself so, Mrs. Graham! Dr. Twitchell admonished me. "I am sure your niece isn't going to die. She hasn't a weak heart has she?"

"Oh, but she has," I cried convincingly. "Nobody knows it but me, not even her husband. She was going to see a specialist tomorrow."

"Then," Dr. Twitchell said with quick authority, "please move [illegible] from the bed. I shall have to get her heart further, and [illegible] to counteract whatever [illegible] taken."

Caught in a Trap

"Oh, Doctor!" I wailed. "She won't die while I'm gone, will she? You won't let her do that?"

"My dear Mrs. Graham!" The boy's tone said with severity, while his lips twitched and his eyes twinkled, "You are hindering me. No, she will not die."

"Oh, I'll go at once," I sobbed and hurried into the other room. There Milner stood at bay while my father told him what had happened. As I came in Dicky turned from sending over Noel and slipped his arm around me.

"You must calm yourself, dearest," he said, all in tender, husbandly chiding. "Dr. Twitchell thinks Noel is in fair condition, and you know he is a capable physician. So Mary is in good hands."

At an imperative knock, my father said "That will be Mr. Veritzen," and moved toward the door.

"Mr. Veritzen!" the manager gasped shaken for the first time from his composure. "You sent for him!"

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, Oct. 31

A DIFFICULT day with strange and sudden developments that call for more than ordinary discretion, circumspection and probably intuitive insight or shrewd manipulation if dangerous shoals are to be avoided. Bitter antagonisms, estrangements, and opposition, both public and private, with drastic activities or ruthless tactics may menace seriously.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year which will call for almost colossal strength, shrewdness and wisdom to swerve from the rocks and shoals of disaster, both in personal and in business propositions. The element of antagonism, opposition, hostility and drastic ways of manifesting these may be found in public, group and "higher up" circles. These may best be manipulated and placated by cool, contained, and amiable conduct, born of intuitive guidance or clever insight into root causes of the animosity.

A child born on this day may have a spectacular career with many ups and downs, this affecting its private as well as public and business associations.
